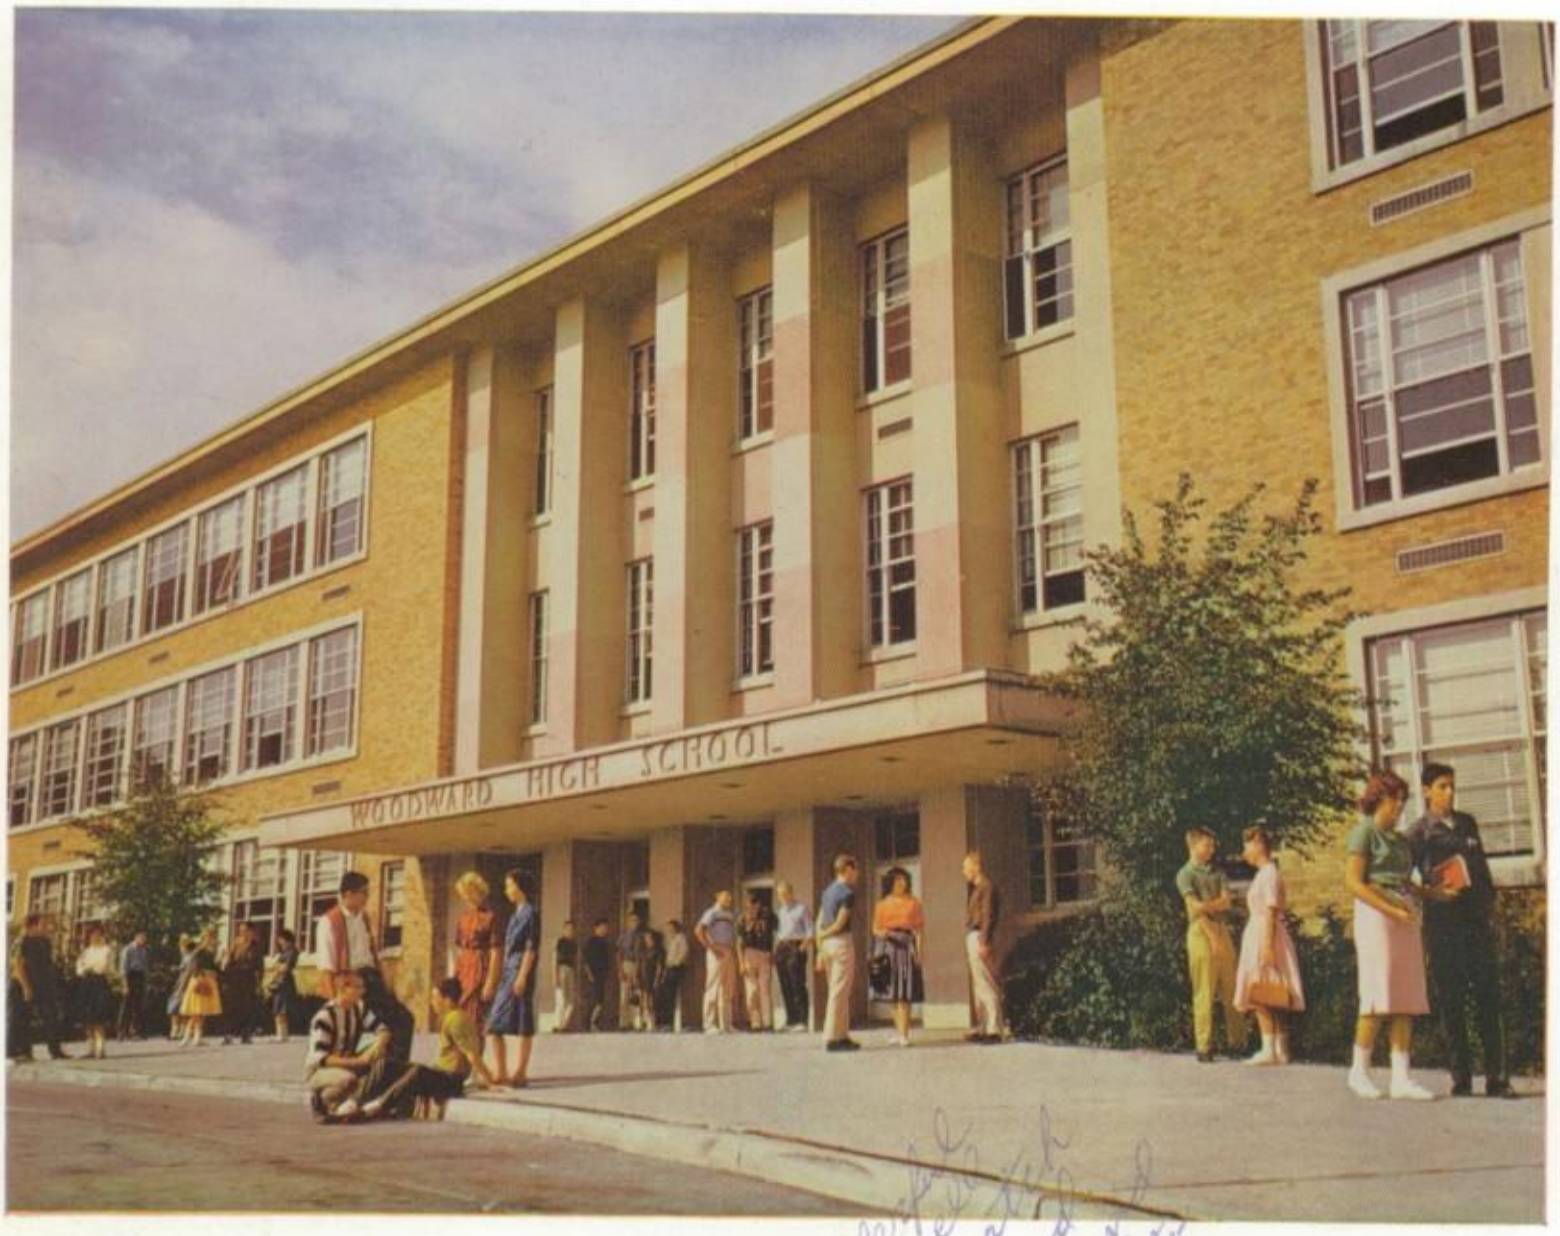
Woodward High School

Cincinnati, Ohio

'61 . . . Spectacular—Sensational



Nineteen Sixty-one—in so many ways was it wonderful at Woodward! A year so special that, turned upside down, it still reads the same; the first "reversible" year since 1881—the last until 6119, 4158 years from now. For this reason, members of the class of 1961 can claim that "their year" stands unique. But for so many other more important reasons will all Woodwardites remember this year. Aside from their individual aspirations, frustrations, and achievements, Woodward students can recall countless events they shared with their classmates. These—though they may have occurred at other times—seem especially significant this year.

—Sixty-Onederful!

Recall these memorable moments? "61 for the Money" . . . the May Fete . . . Founder's Day . . . final exams . . . graduation . . . semester exams . . . the Prom . . . mid-term tests . . . front hall conversations . . . English quizzes . . . football thrills at Trechter . . . math quizzes . . . electrifying pep assemblies . . . and just plain quizzes. As the kaleidoscope of one's memory reflects upon Sixty-one at Woodward, vivid pictures of these events—and hundreds more—come to mind. Then can one recall the highlights of the year—its enthusiasm, its spirit, its news that now is history, its novelties that now bring smiles, its learning that has become a part of our living, and its teamwork that led to unforgettable victories and honorable defeats. Thus we say . . . at Woodward this year was . . . anyway you look at it—SIXTY-ONE-DERFUL!

To Jackie,
A cute girl who will make a big splash in New York. Miss you next year. May all your dreams come true. Love and Luck.

Learning

Jupiter and her twelve moons . . . the dative of coniunx . . . the Edict of Nantes . . . the derivative of 5xy . . . the Tyndall effect—these subjects typified the wealth of knowledge open to us. Many of us supplemented the English and math learned in the classroom by enrolling in the new reading speed-comprehension program and by watching "Macbeth" and "Why Johnny Can't Learn Math" on television. Whatever role we may play in the future, we will apply the knowledge we acquired this year in solving problems in the home, in the plant or office, and in the nation.

. . . Unified by

Kicking their heels in unison, pony chorus presented a well-coordinated line for Showcase '61.

Band, stage crew, pony chorus, track team—how much they depend upon teamwork! A "b" flat instead of a "b" on one trumpet sours an entire band arrangement. A misdirected spotlight hides the speaker in a play . . . a hasty kick spoils the precision in a chorus line . . . a runner late for practice hampers his team's chance to win that important meet. Teamwork in 1961 gave Woodward an acclaimed marching band; two applauded dramatic productions; a Showcase sell-out; a winning debate team; and a profitable May Fete. Sixty-onederful teamwork made these and many other school successes possible.

Having "learned the ropes" of stage crew's many duties, Warren Gifford, Doug Frank, Jack Goffin, and Bill Kidder cooperate to arrange behind-the-scene details for Woodward productions.

Teamwork meant precision for the band.

Sixty-Onederful Teamwork

Ron Roth, John Mascari (kneeling), Daryl Watson and Larry Osky team up to perform the integral phases of the lithograph process—photographing, etching, proofing and printing.

With strides synchronized to the split second, Bill French and Tiny Berliner transfer the baton in a track relay.

. . . Sparked by Sixty-

Gossip and excitement electrified the main hall each morning.

Junie "Shades" Curry and friend generated enthusiasm at the pep assembly before the Wyoming game.

Onederful Enthusiasm

Enthusiasm sparks activities and academics at Woodward. Pep club sponsors buses to football games and Blue and White Day. Cheerblock, a unique organization at Woodward, attends all football games. Friday afternoon pep assemblies offer inspiring speeches by the coaches, funny skits that further interest in the forthcoming game, and rousing cheers led by pert cheerleaders. This enthusiasm generates a desire to excel in academic work. This desire to learn is reflected in the library which each day before and after school is student-filled. This enthusiasm for learning, this school spirit have given this year a special meaning—Sixty-onederful.

Oblivious to those around them in a pep assembly, Joanne Honschopp and Sue Lominac—a vivacious pair —share a secret.

Present at every football game, the members of Cheerblock give our teams the added boost needed for victory.

Woodward students like Lester Schmerr, absorbed here in a puzzling differential calculus problem, showed enthusiasm for learning.

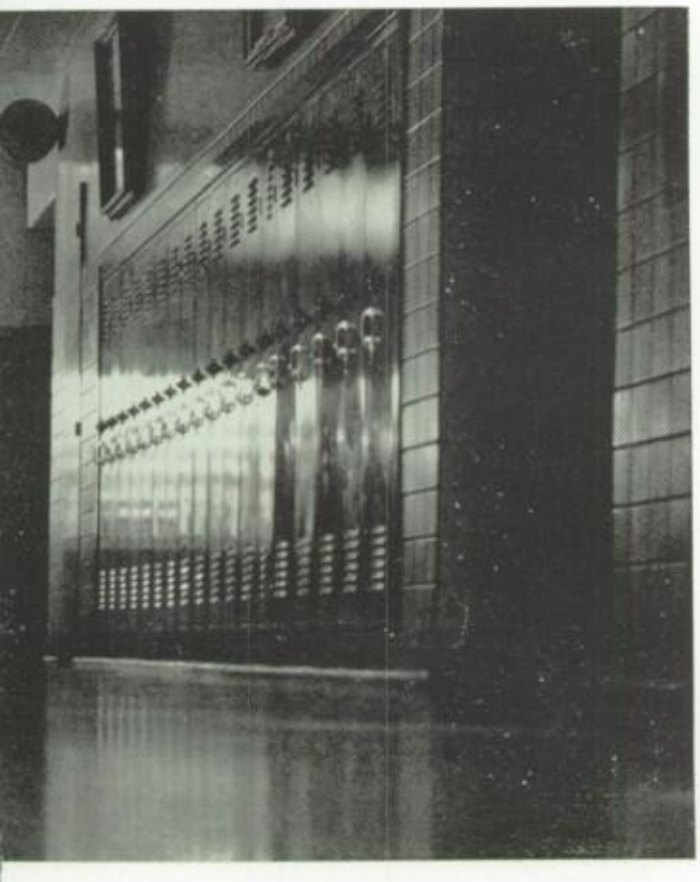
Onederful Devotion



Devotion to our school, our friends, our parents, and our beliefs played an important role in this Sixty-onederful year. After-school discussions cemented friendships with our teachers. But with that certain girl or boy, no words were needed to express devotion. Executing the Woodward pledge, working together with our parents and teachers to plan the May Fete, pledging allegiance to the flag, accompanying Ensemble at the Christmas assembly, helping a chemistry partner balance a difficult equation—all these actions typify our devotion to friends, family, school, and country.

Onederful News and Novelties

Top news stories and novelties enlivened 1961. John F. Kennedy lost to Richard M. Nixon in Woodward's mock election, but won in the national election; Woodward's football team made its best-ever record; enrollment topped the 3,000 mark for the first time; the package plan was initiated and proved successful. The pilgrimage to Ironton for a football game ended as an adventure for those caught on the "Wayward Bus" (the bus broke down in Ironton and did not return until eleven the following morning). Girls sported kneeticklers and tights and we practiced the steps of the "Stomp," the "Twist," and the "Sputnik." These news events, fads, and fashions highlighted this Sixty-onederful year.

Among the first of the new group dances popular this year, the "Stomp" soon became the favorite of many Woodward students.

A whirling merry-go-round of activities—such as the junior and senior class elections, the homecoming dance, the "Blast Off" open house, the dedication of the Winton Moeller memorial organ—lent color . . . excitement . . . drama to this year. We planned these events; we lived them. We designed the throwouts to advertise events such as the Drama Club play or the Royal Shuffle. We stayed after school training to make the team or struggling to meet a publication deadline. The memory of these experiences we'll treasure for a lifetime.

Mr. Cleon Wingard, Principal, Radiates Warmth, Friendliness

The open house crowd in the Meridian Room after the Taft football game was in low spirits. A short while before, Woodward's team had lost not only the game but the PHSL crown as well. Suddenly a "bearded" man dressed in a Civil War uniform came to the microphone. Not mentioning that the Bulldogs had lost, he led the crowd in a cheer for a team which had tried its best to retain the title. The man was Mr. Cleon J. Wingard, principal of Woodward High School. The incident illustrates Mr. Wingard's warm, friendly relations with students and their endeavors. Many more incidents can be cited. Mr. Wingard is perhaps one of the only principals of a large high school who substitutes for absent teachers and meets the student body on a personal basis. So contagious has been his enthusiasm for Woodward that students have greater pride in the school. Needless to say, they take equally great pride in their principal.

Warmth, vigor, and enthusiasm characterize Mr. Cleon Wingard, Principal of Woodward High School.

Mr. Wingard, known for his friendliness, asks seventh grader David Blum how he likes his first year at Woodward.

At the pep assembly before the crucial Taft football game, few students recognized the faculty member who portrayed Woodward's spirit, that dates back to Civil War days and beyond. The Old Soldier is Mr. Wingard.

At home with his family, Mr. Wingard stands with his son Cleon, Jr., a senior at Hughes High School, daughter Dianne, a freshman at Schwab High School, and his wife Lenore.

Senior high assistant principal Mr. Arthur Vigard handles withdrawals, transfers, and admissions of all senior high pupils. He issues maps, globes, charts, and fifty thousand textbooks a year to Woodward teachers; superintends the organization of the lunchrooms; and supervises science, mathematics, and business instruction.

Mr. Arthur Vigard frequently uses the telephone while carrying out his responsibilities.

Assistant Principals Face Varied Tasks

Mr. Eugene Shrimpton, junior high assistant principal, bears ultimate responsibility for the welfare of our 1,079 junior high students. He superintends lockers, checks on truancies, deals with disciplinary problems, organizes instruction programs, and arranges meetings for the fine arts, industrial arts, and home economics departments. Says Mr. Shrimpton about his responsibilities: "They keep me busy."

To all junior high students, Mr. Eugene Shrimpton is "Father."

Mr. McConnell seems to be counseling Miss Schwartz, Mr. Spreen and Miss Blackwell.

To Jackie.
Love ya because you are one of the best kids with the best personality.
Always love ya,
Tammy

Counselors Aid Students In Preparing For Future

The key to a successful high school life lies in the hands of our counselors. With Mr. John McConnell's aid, seniors solve their special problems. He helps each select a college and prepares all transcripts. Miss Zerita Schwartz advises half of the sophomore class and the entire junior class and sets up college workshops for eleventh graders. Mr. William Spreen counsels the other sophomores and all of the freshmen. He has devoted a great deal of time to the organization of the senior high reading comprehension course. Miss Georgie Blackwell administers to the needs and problems of our seventh and eighth graders.

Who handles the behind-the-scene-work at Woodward? Five secretaries who, among other things, are responsible for keeping organized and accurate records of each member of the student body; the electrician who carefully regulates our heating system so that students can learn in comfort; the custodian and his staff whose duties center around the maintenance and upkeep of the building and school grounds; and our lunchroom staff, which prepares our tasty, well-balanced meals. Few students are actually aware of the vital role these people play in the day-to-day operation of our school. Yet, without their services, learning at Woodward would hardly be possible.

Miss Ruth Schafstall, dietitian, plans the lunch meals.

The study of English at our school has two specific goals: to equip the student with the skills needed in effective reading, writing, listening, and speaking, and to develop appreciation of these skills. English is a required subject through the eleventh grade. Seniors enrolled in the college preparatory program, however, must take English IV. Other subjects offered by the English department are speech, public speaking, debating, newswriting, journalism, and dramatics. These subjects are designed to develop specific language skills. This year, through the newly-organized reading comprehension program, students have been able to improve their reading speed and comprehension. The second annual writers contest stimulated interest in creative writing. Through those programs students improved their ability to use their mother tongue.

Learning aids such as calorimeters, sphygmometers, and centrifuges supplement the facts acquired from the text to uncover the marvels of science for Woodward students. Two physical sciences offered to senior high students are chemistry and physics. Students learn the relationship between matter and motion in physics, while they learn the substances of the world in chemistry. For those students interested in the functioning of the human body and the animal body, Woodward offers zoology, biology, and physiology. Botany gives instruction in facts concerning plant life. Junior high students receive a general background that helps them determine toward which of these sciences they would like to study further.

Skill subjects supplement academic education at Woodward. Seventh grade girls at Woodward take home economics, in which they learn home making, sewing, cooking, child care and personal hygiene. Because of the course's interest and value many girls major in home economics throughout their high school education. Boys who enter Woodward in their seventh grade take one semester of printing and one of woodworking. Most of them take electricity and metal working as an optional subject in the eighth grade. Advance classes in these subjects are taken by students interested in vocational trades. Senior high boys interested in running equipment such as movie projectors, opague projectors, and record players operate equipment for various classes during their study halls as members of projection crew.

French teacher Mr. Thomas D'Amico points to the "lampadaire."

The Woodward foreign language department teaches students to speak the language they are studying and to understand the people to whom the language is native. The primary tool is the Woodward language lab, unique in Cincinnati. It facilitates oral comprehension and aids learning through record players, foreign language recordings, equipment to record speech, and individual listening booths. This laboratory enables a student to check his own progress, correct errors of pronunciation, and receive additional aid from his instructor by means of recorded assignments. French, German, Latin, and Spanish are offered to the students in grades nine through twelve. All with the exception of German have a college preparatory program for the seventh and eighth grades meeting two and a half periods a week. Woodward is one of the three high schools in Cincinnati that teaches German.

Math Path Tough, Journey Rewarding

The mathematics department at Woodward strives to teach in two main fields, the theoretical and the practical. The practical side of Woodward's math courses begins in the arithmetic courses in the seventh and eighth grades. Later on, general math reviews, arithmetic and beginner's algebra are taken. Consumer's math or business math is another senior high course available for those students interested in a business major. College Preparatory students will take Algebra I in the ninth grade and then enter plane geometry in the tenth grade. Following a year of proofs, graphs, and figures, students take Algebra again in the eleventh grade. Seniors study solid and analytic geometry, and trigonometry. A special advanced placement program includes freshman college math supplemented with calculus. College credit is given all those who get a satisfactory score on the Advanced Placement Program Test given at the end of the school year.

Although teachers are usually associated with the classroom tasks of grading papers and giving lectures, they also have an identity away from the classroom. At three o'clock they assume new roles, quite different from those that the students see in school. Contrary to belief, they are not always quoting Shakespeare or rattling off theorems, but doing ordinary things like washing dishes, planting flowers, or playing golf. They have husbands or wives, children, and next door neighbrs with whom they watch television, go to church, or plan a picnic. There is not, however, a void between their school and personal interests. One supplements the other. When teachers go home, they take some of the classroom with them; at school their personalities reflect their outside experiences.

Proud faculty fathers hold babies born this year—Mr. Frank Hamel and Susan, Mr. John Anaple and Gretchen Michele, Mr. David Thurin and Son Chris, and Mr. Celio Bongiani and Frances Ann.

Woodworking is Mr. Bob Anderson's favorite pastime. Mr. Anderson teaches science.

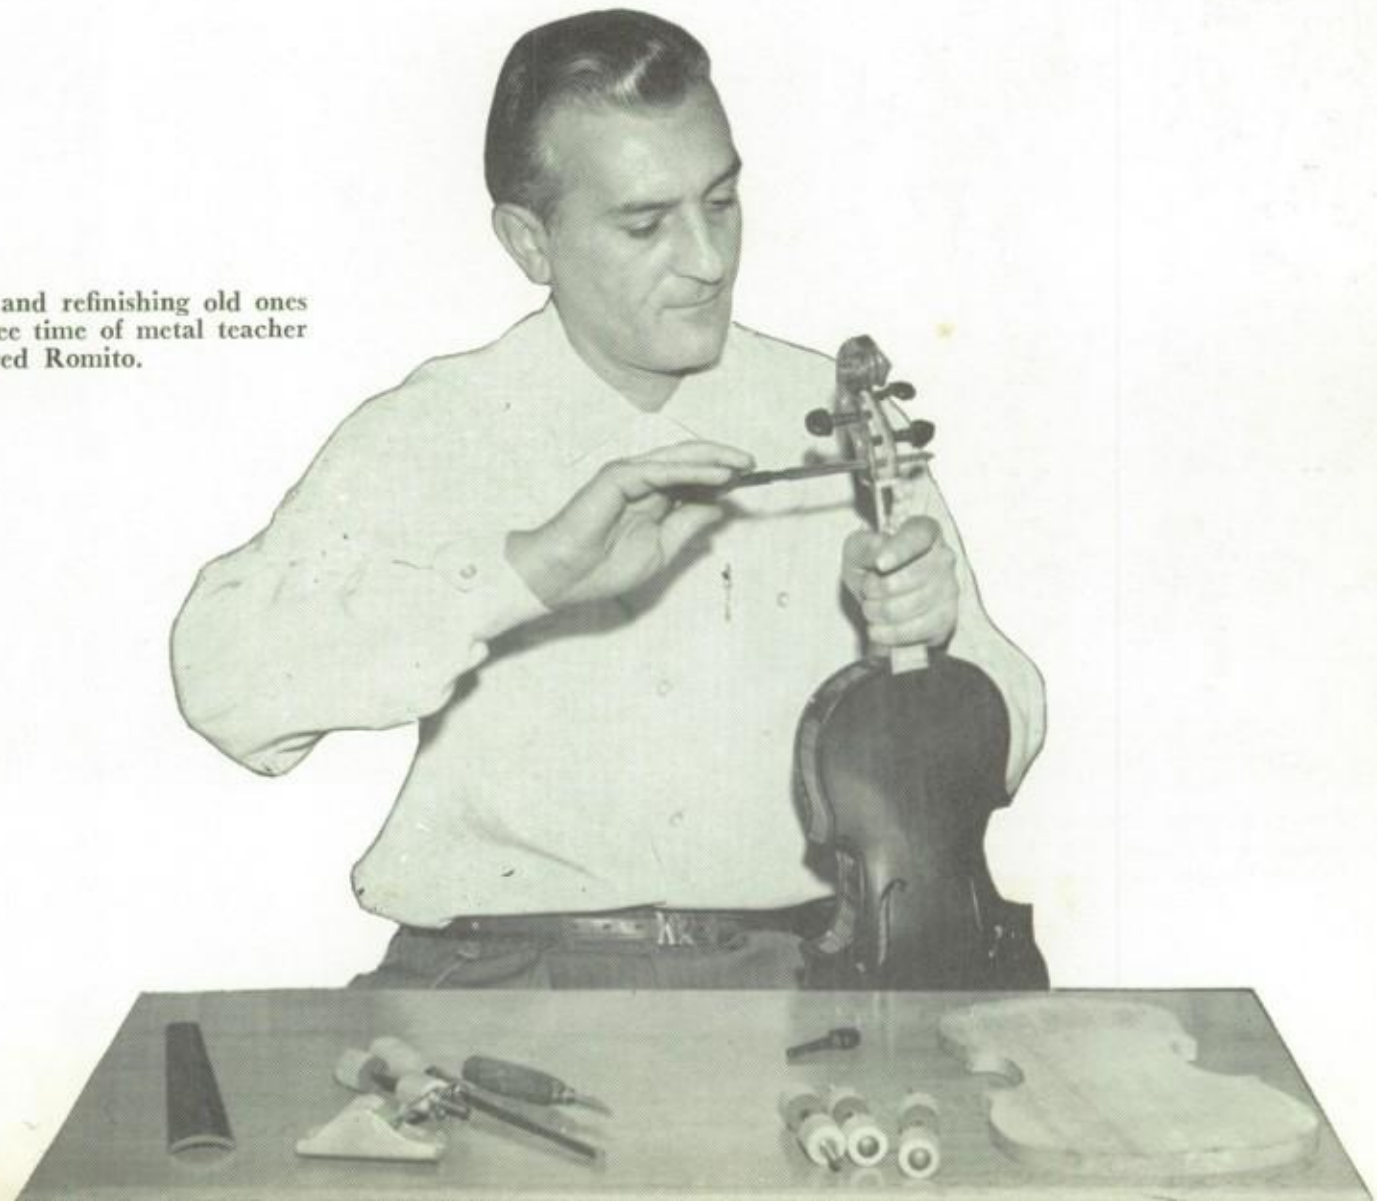
Designing new violins and refinishing old ones occupy much of the free time of metal teacher Mr. Wilfred Romito.



Teachers

Mrs. Mary Siddall, junior high librarian, and daughter Carol, senior, work together to prepare dinner.

Mr. John McConnell, senior class counselor, collapses from the heavy load of books usually carried by his children, Ann, a junior, and Ross, a senior.

Collecting records, guns, cameras, rocks, and flint heads, and enjoying a good game of baseball and bowling constitute only a few of the hobbies that Mr. Homer Caskey, chemistry teacher, and his son Bill, a senior, enjoy together.

Make Good Parents

Teachers who have children of their own often better understand their students. Living with kids all day, not just from 8:30 A.M. to 3:00 P.M. they realize more clearly why their students behave and think as they do. They are more familiar with the conflict between the telephone and homework, term papers and television, and spring vacation and books. Rock'n Roll and expressions like "cool" and "gimpy" are not strange to them. With ease these teachers can help their students solve personal problems because they have experienced similar problems with their own offspring. Woodward students are especially fortunate to have several teachers who not only have teen-age children, but children who go to Woodward. These teachers get first-hand knowledge of Woodward students and use this information to better teach their students.

Mrs. Mary Lou Koehl, gym teacher and director of one of the chorus lines for Showcase, assists her daughter Pam, a sophomore, in a graceful arabesque.

With tongue-in-cheek seriousness, Jim Bowers, a senior, asks his mother, Mrs. Helen Bowers, for a room pass. Mr. Bowers teaches business.

Chivalrous senior Andy Grant, assists his mother, Mrs. Alice Grant, an English teacher, from their car, after their daily trip to school.

To Jackie,
You are a cute,
adorable, neat girl.
Every since I met you about a year and a half ago when you came to Woodrow
- you were very nice. Although you came from a hoody school -carriage you were a very nice girl. I know that like Mark Abrams (a great Senator) and Paul Feldman (Paul is anyone except a few kids (I already told about
Good Luck with Mark
Bobby Senators
"65"
Lilly likes won't tell any 5 or 6 or 7 people).
P.S. look up for a real neat kid on

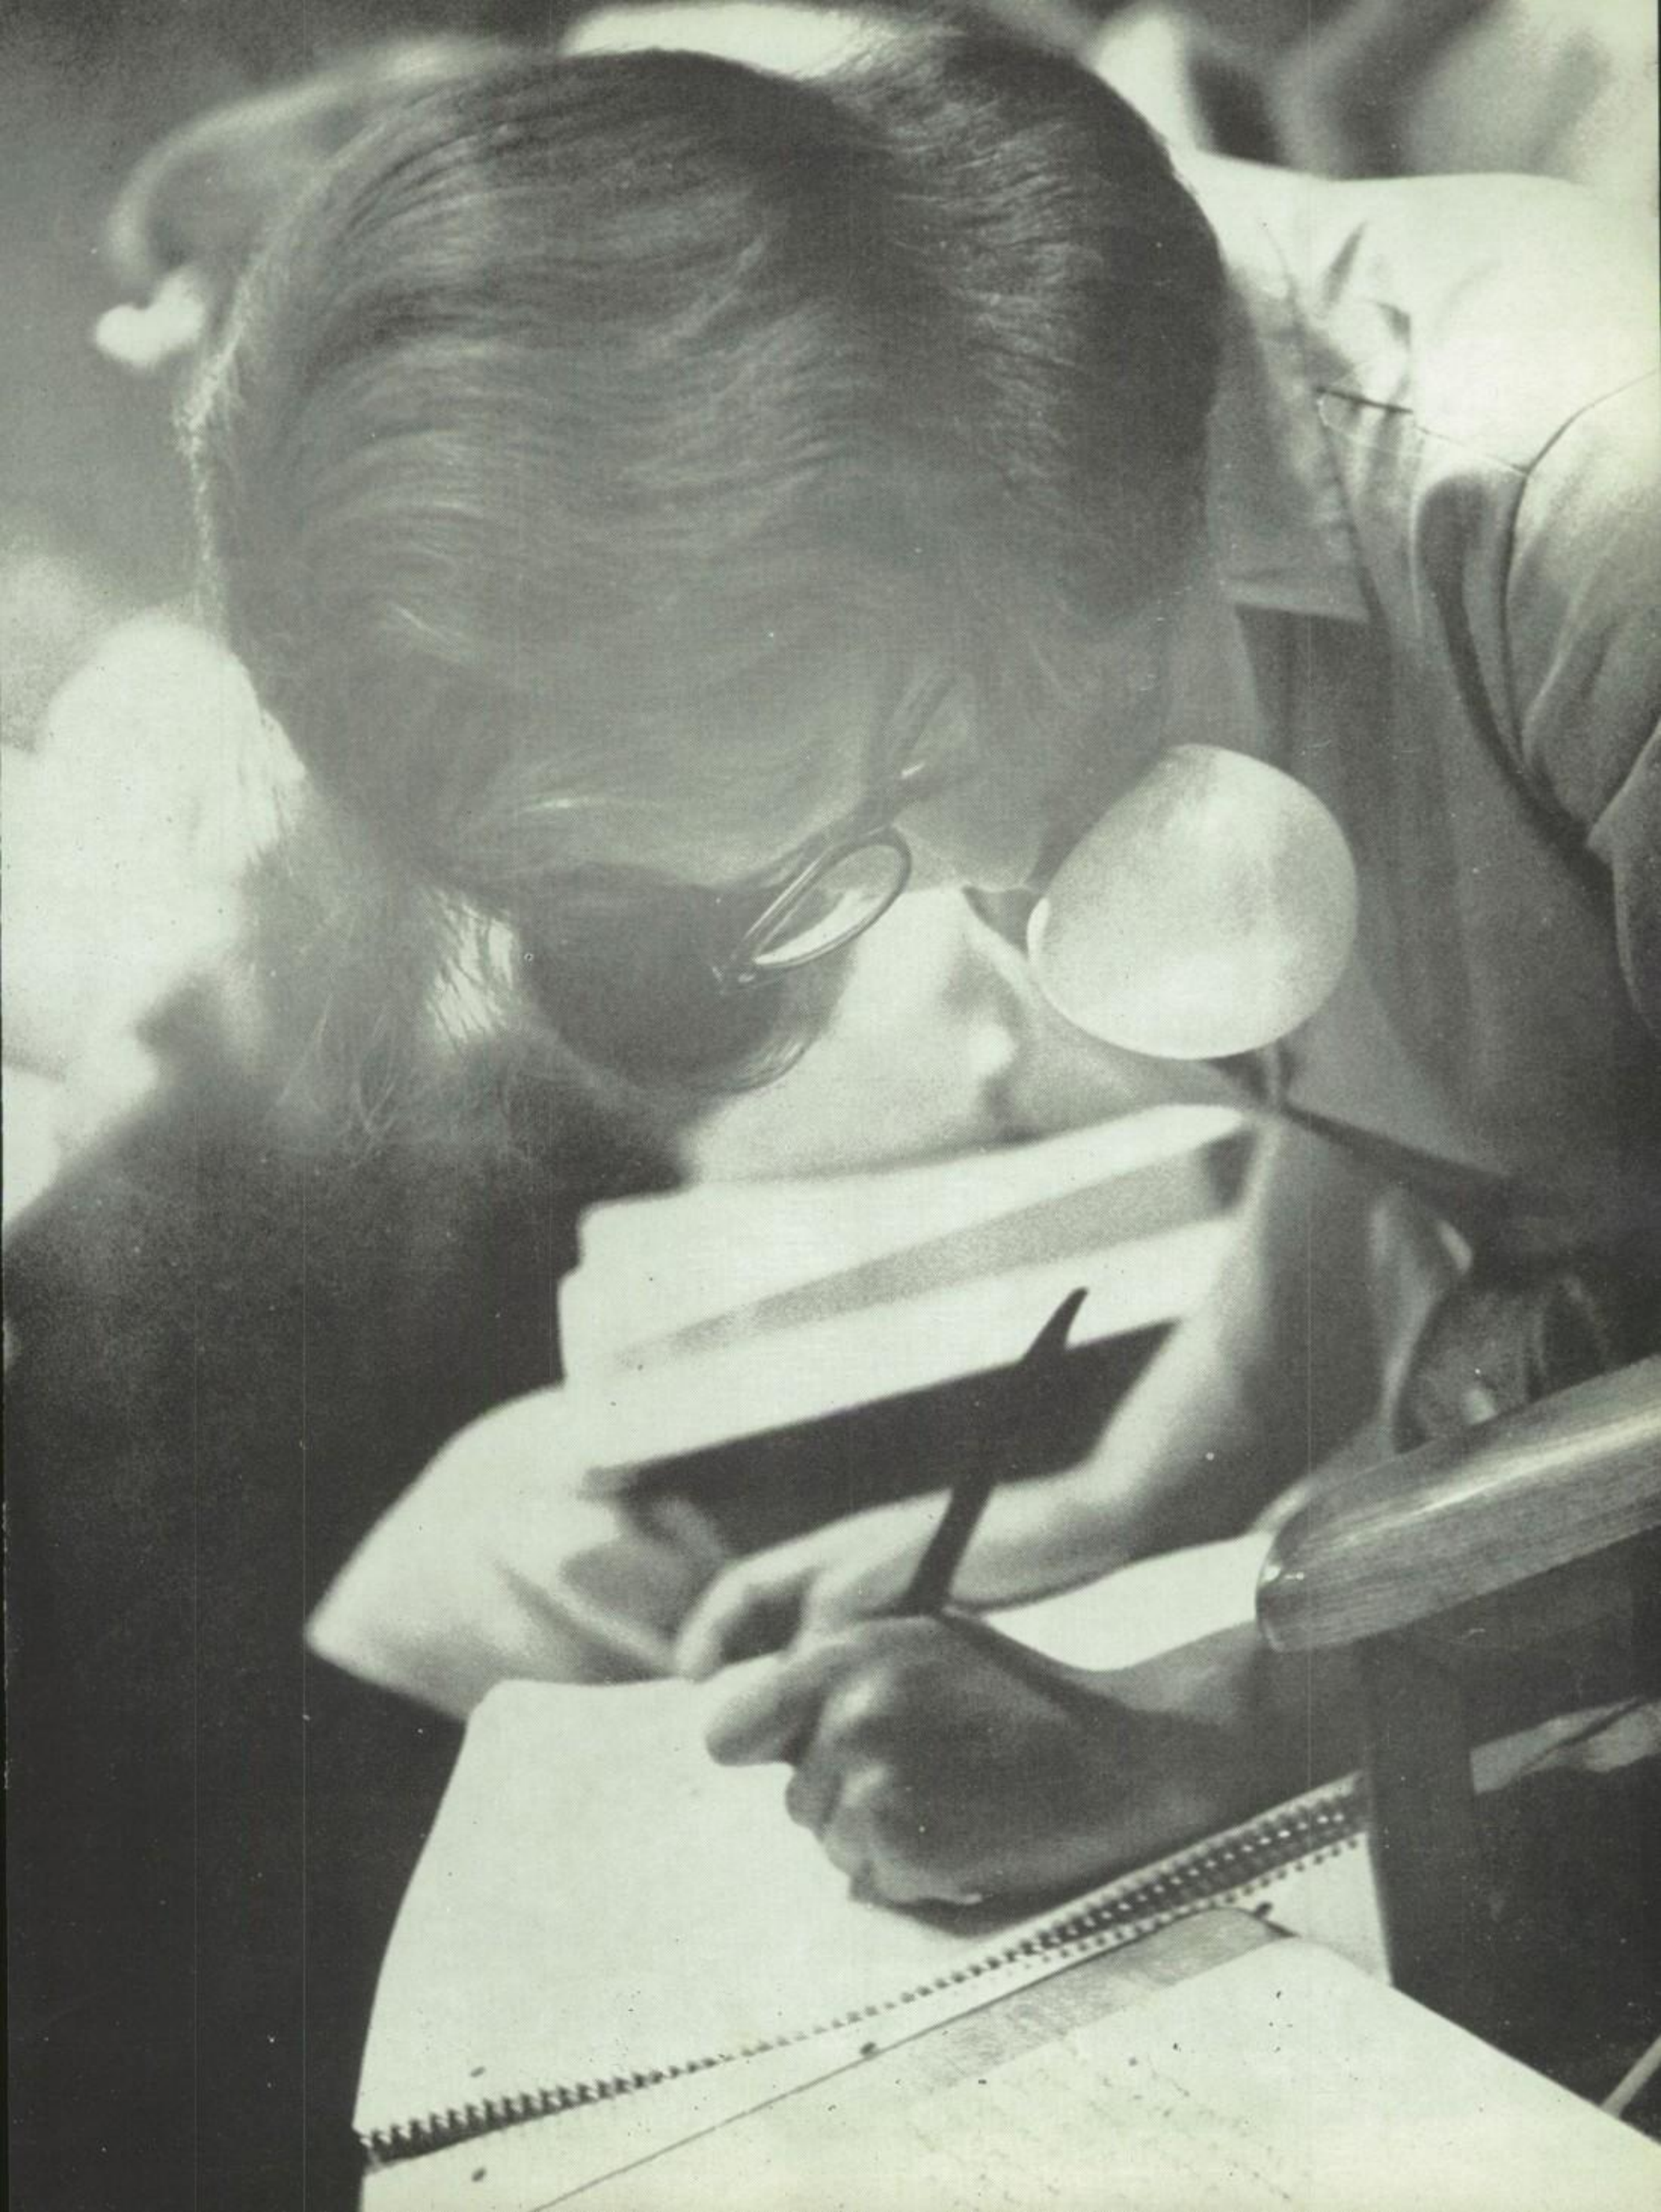
CLASSES



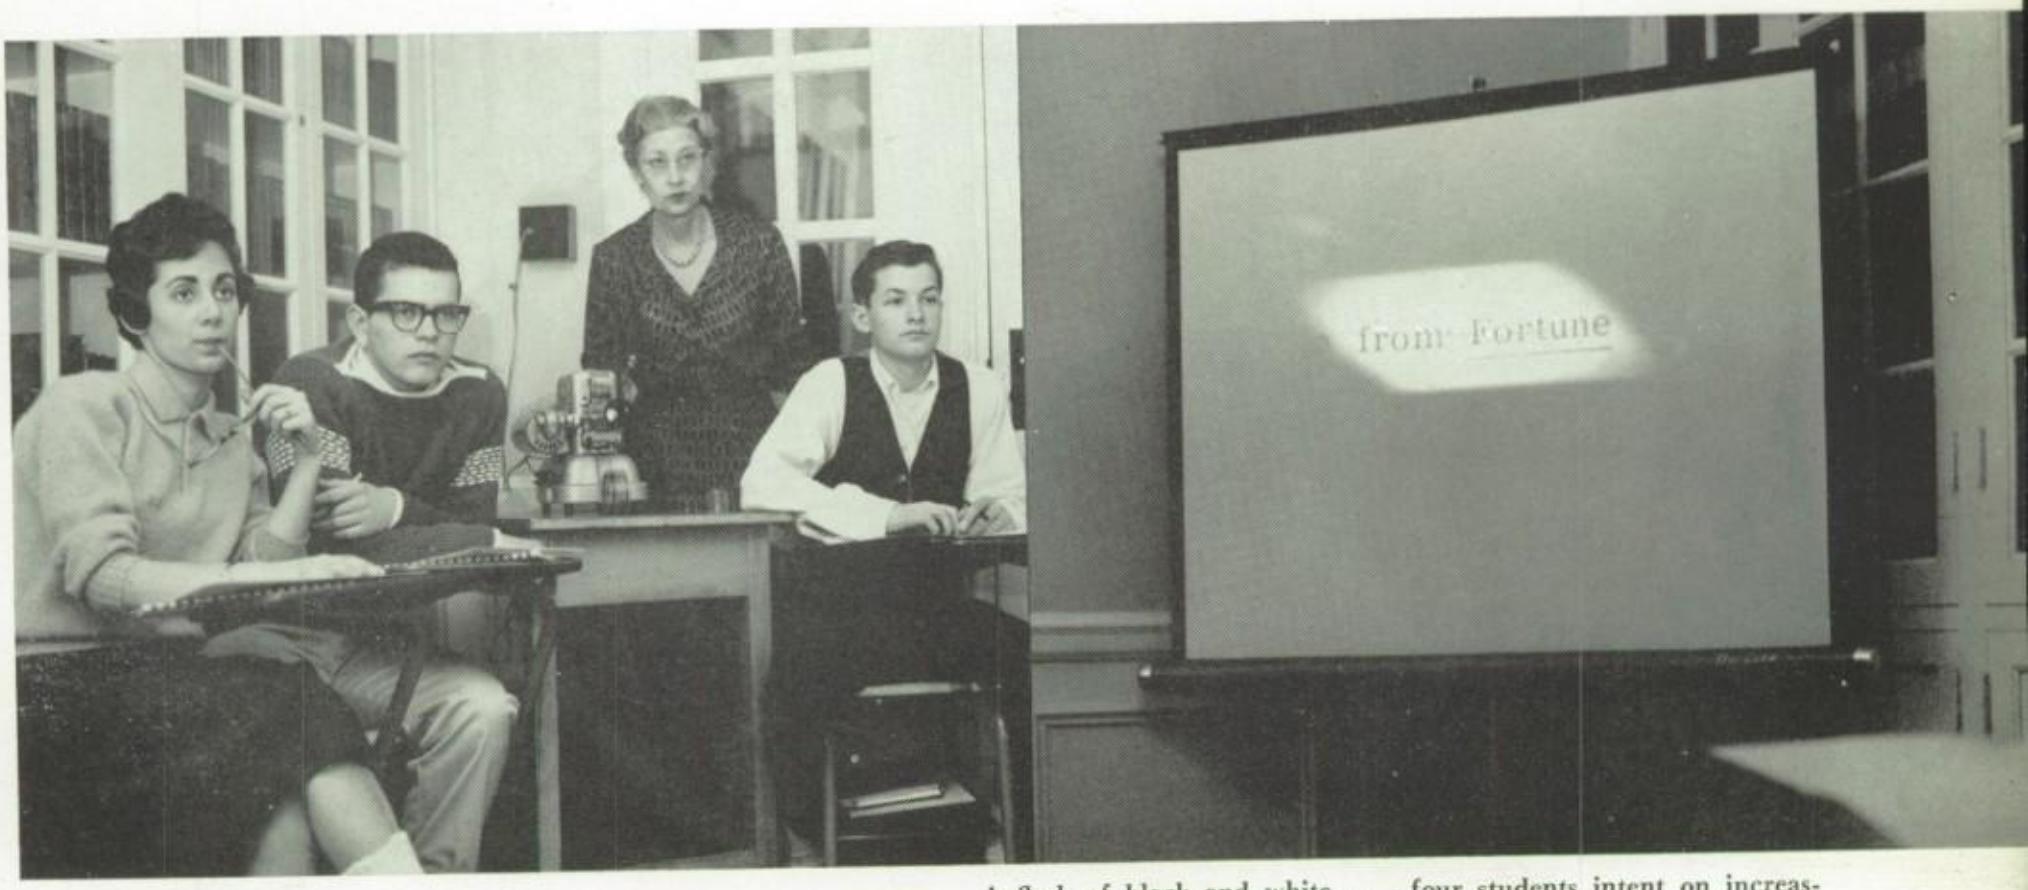
Student advisor Rosemary Eng tells faculty advisor Mr. David Thurin that she believes seniors, who entered the Writer's Contest in force, will win most prizes.

Senior Walt Schnee's 1929 Model "A" Ford is sure to be as great a hit at college as it is on Woodward's parking lot.

Seniors, School "Vets," Face World

"I only said I had a headache," reflects Keith Humphries to first aider Bill Hill during a senior health class.

Having endured more school, more exams, more football games, more book reviews, more dances, more report cards, more college boards, more ups, more downs, and more thrills than underclassmen, seniors became school leaders. They served as activity presidents, publication editors, team captains, and examples to other students. Some events recall special moments for them—the senior winter picnic, the senior prom, class day graduation. These added experiences and responsibilities have given seniors a certain air they'll soon lose when they face the adult world. The experience gained throughout school and especially in the senior year has prepared them for their future—prepared them for life.



A flash of black and white . . . four students intent on increasing speed in preparation for college study the reading lab screen, assisted by Miss Emilie Curry.

As seniors Alden Mosher and Linda Lee Miller depart from the door of Woodward for the last time, Al carries on the old tradition of chivalry.

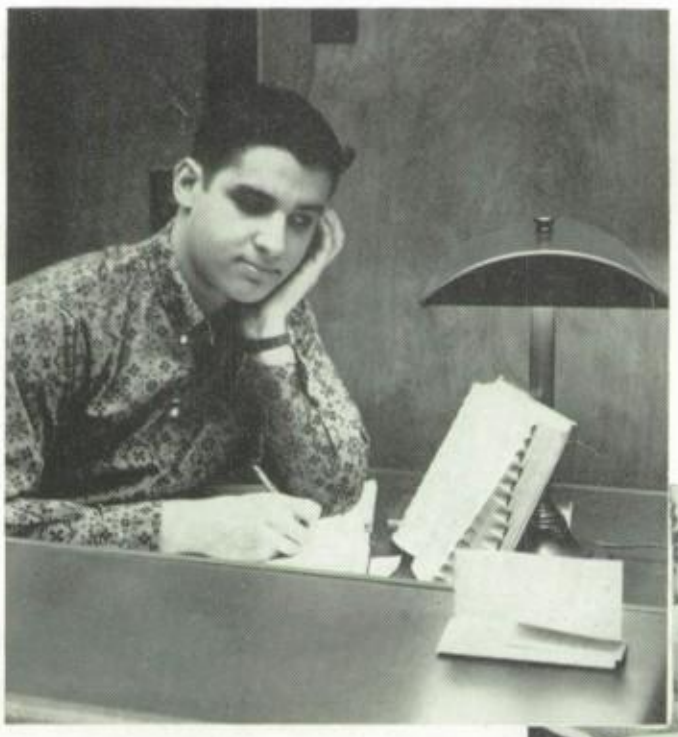
After cheering at a Withrow game, Norma Scott carries a lost child through the deserted stadium which, in its solitude, appears to be an ancient amphitheater.

Woodward is a huge mixing bowl into which are poured pupils of diverse ethnic, national, and social groups. In classes with teenagers representing every section of the United States are students from India, Israel, Turkey, Iran, Cuba, Belgium, West Germany, and Sweden. The Woodward district stretches from Roselawn in the north to Avondale in the south. It touches Kennedy Heights in the east and College Hill in the west. From this area, students of different racial, religious, economic, and cultural backgrounds together attend Woodward.

Study, Play Unite Pupils in Loyalty

The force of everyday experience at Woodward blends these various human ingredients. As they complain about homework or their nervousness before a test, Woodwardites find they have similar problems. Day-to-day social contacts —a chat across a table in the lunchroom or above the din the main hall in the morning—unite students in friendship. Singing the Alma Mater or cheering enthusiastically after a Bulldog touchdown, Woodwardites develop common loyalties. With tradition such as the annual ringing of the original bell, an even deeper feeling of fellowship permeates the entire school.

"Only seventy more definitions," sighs junior Mike Schwartz, as he works into the twilight hours.



"Food for thought" is Sandy Strong's motto as she delves into her textbook.

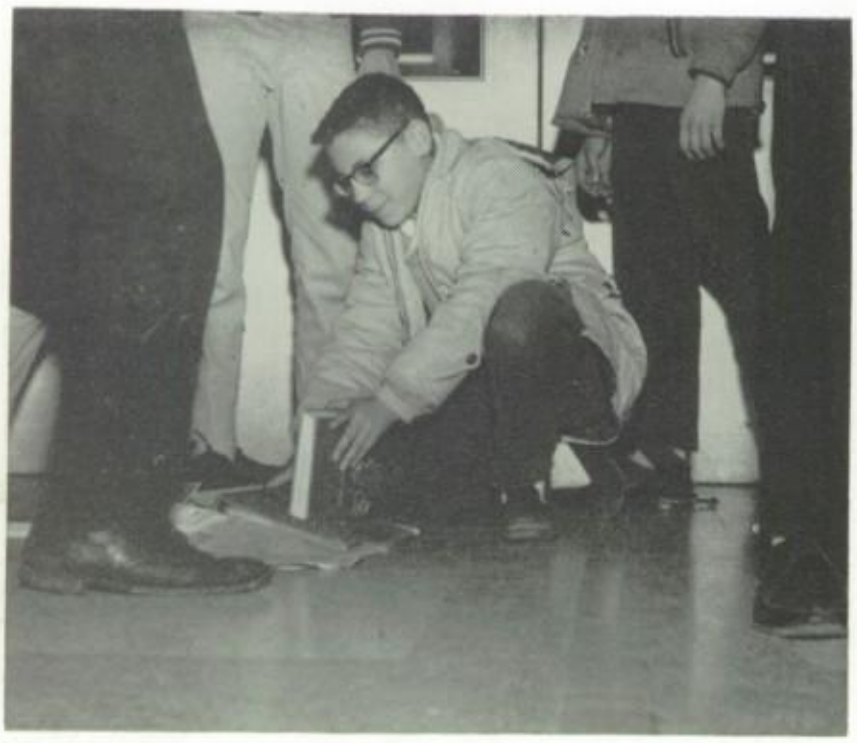
Big Sister Gail Graff gives hair-styling hints to her Little Sister, Sharon Royce.

Picking up books he has just dropped, seventh grader Hank Fleishman experiences "main hall claustrophobia."



Rookies this year, as every year, faced new and exciting experiences. During the first months of school, these seventh graders managed to adjust to crowded halls, mile-long lunchlines, combination lockers, look-alike classrooms, and "giant" upperclassmen. To calm the fear and anxiety of Rookie girls, senior Big Sisters gave them guidance and companionship. The Rookies soon discovered and participated in activities such as Guppies, intramural sports, Junior 'Y' Teens, Junior High Pep Club, Beginners' Band, and Junior Science Club. Through these activities and experiences the class of '66 gained social as well as academic knowledge.

Awed Rookies Learn to Find Fun in School

Painting a papier-mache mask in art class challenges the imagination of Alan Pasner.

Members of the class of '64, as freshman, assumed leadership of the junior high. They were elected officers of clubs, participated on the Junior High Student Council, worked on the "Junior High Times" as editors and reporters and, to culminate their academic efforts, won acceptance into the Junior National Honor Society. Freshman Recognition Day, set aside to honor the graduating class of the junior high school, terminated their eventful year.

Larry Rinsky diligently writes the legend for his seed collection.

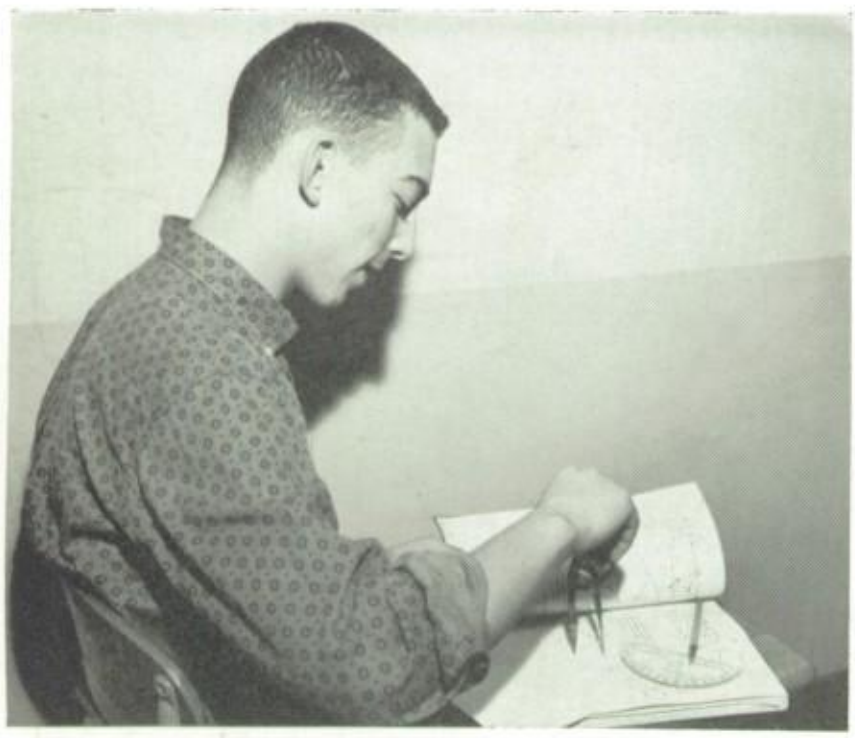
"Will he call?" wonders sophomore Ann Kabakoff, as she waits for that special date for the sophomore skating party.



Dave Koffler reluctantly tackles the age-old problem of sophomores—plane geometry.

Tenth Graders Take on New Responsibilities

The class of '63 this year enjoyed for the first time the privileges of senior high status. As sophomores they were eligible for varsity teams, advanced courses in math and English, and membership in senior high clubs. The fusion of students from the junior high schools of Woodward, Schwab, and Shroder gave them the opportunity to meet new people. With the help of Mr. William Schreiner, class advisor, sophomores organized such class activities as an ice-skating party and a picnic.

Sophomores were led by these officers: Steve Peck, treasurer; Sally Gaible, Vice President; Cherry Waite, Secretary; Dave Wheeler, President.

Even at formal affairs, one is able to relax.

Some junior girls like June Rose receive chivalrous attention from senior boys like Ralph Fritsch.

Boys and girls alike anticipate the ordering of class rings in their junior year.

Juniors Get Rings, Plan For Future

The class of 1962, juniors this year, elected class officers in November. In February, they ordered traditional and class rings, tieclasps and lockets engraved with the Woodward seal. The Junior Prom, Springtime Paradise, in May highlighted the entire year. Throughout the year with the help of Miss Zerita Schwartz, counselor, juniors mapped out their futures with the aid of tests, workshops, and conferences. The juniors, guided by Mr. Louis Ruley, are now prepared to fill the void which will be left by the Class of 1961.

Junior Class Officers: Pete Johnston, vice president; Elaine Goertmiller, secretary; Diane Luken, treasurer; Ken Hyams, president.

ACTIVITIES

Pep assemblies promote spirit among the student body.

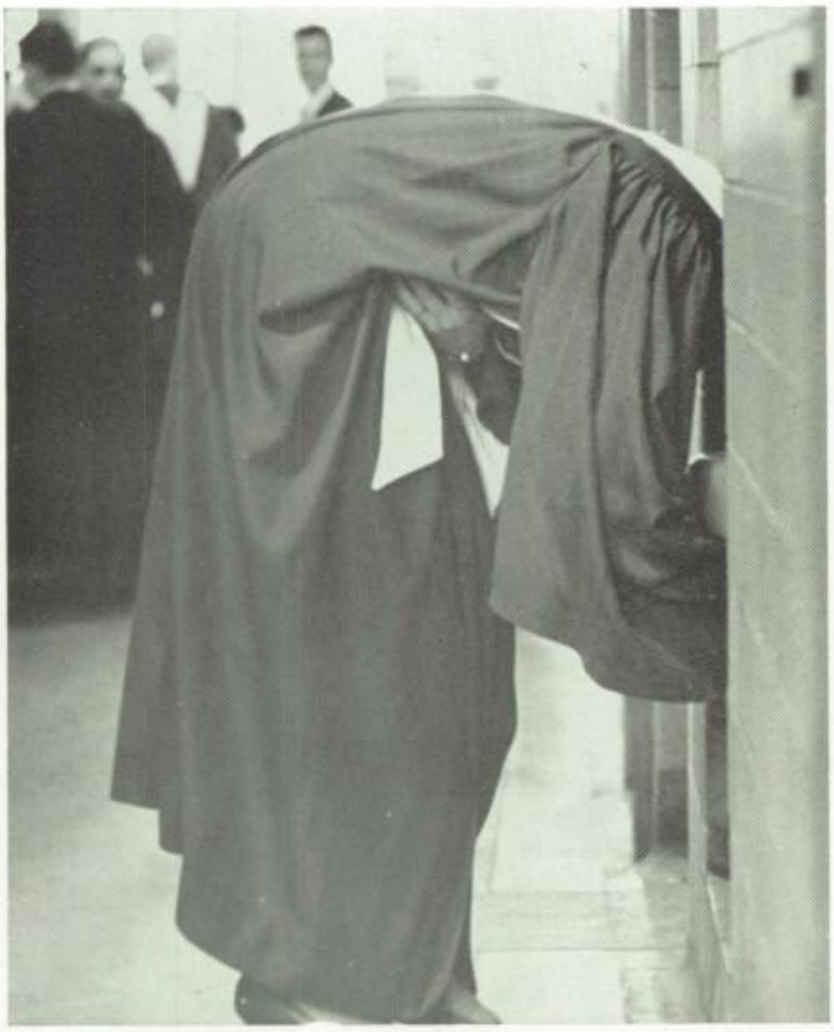
Active Students Find Outlets for Energy

One of the most common after-school activities is the "telephone hour" between girl (Reba Wood) and boy (Jack Fielden).

A dramatic moment — Pat Schrader shows strong emotion upon hearing that her friend Sue Lominac has just been named Homecoming Queen. (For a good look at the good looking queen, see page 105.

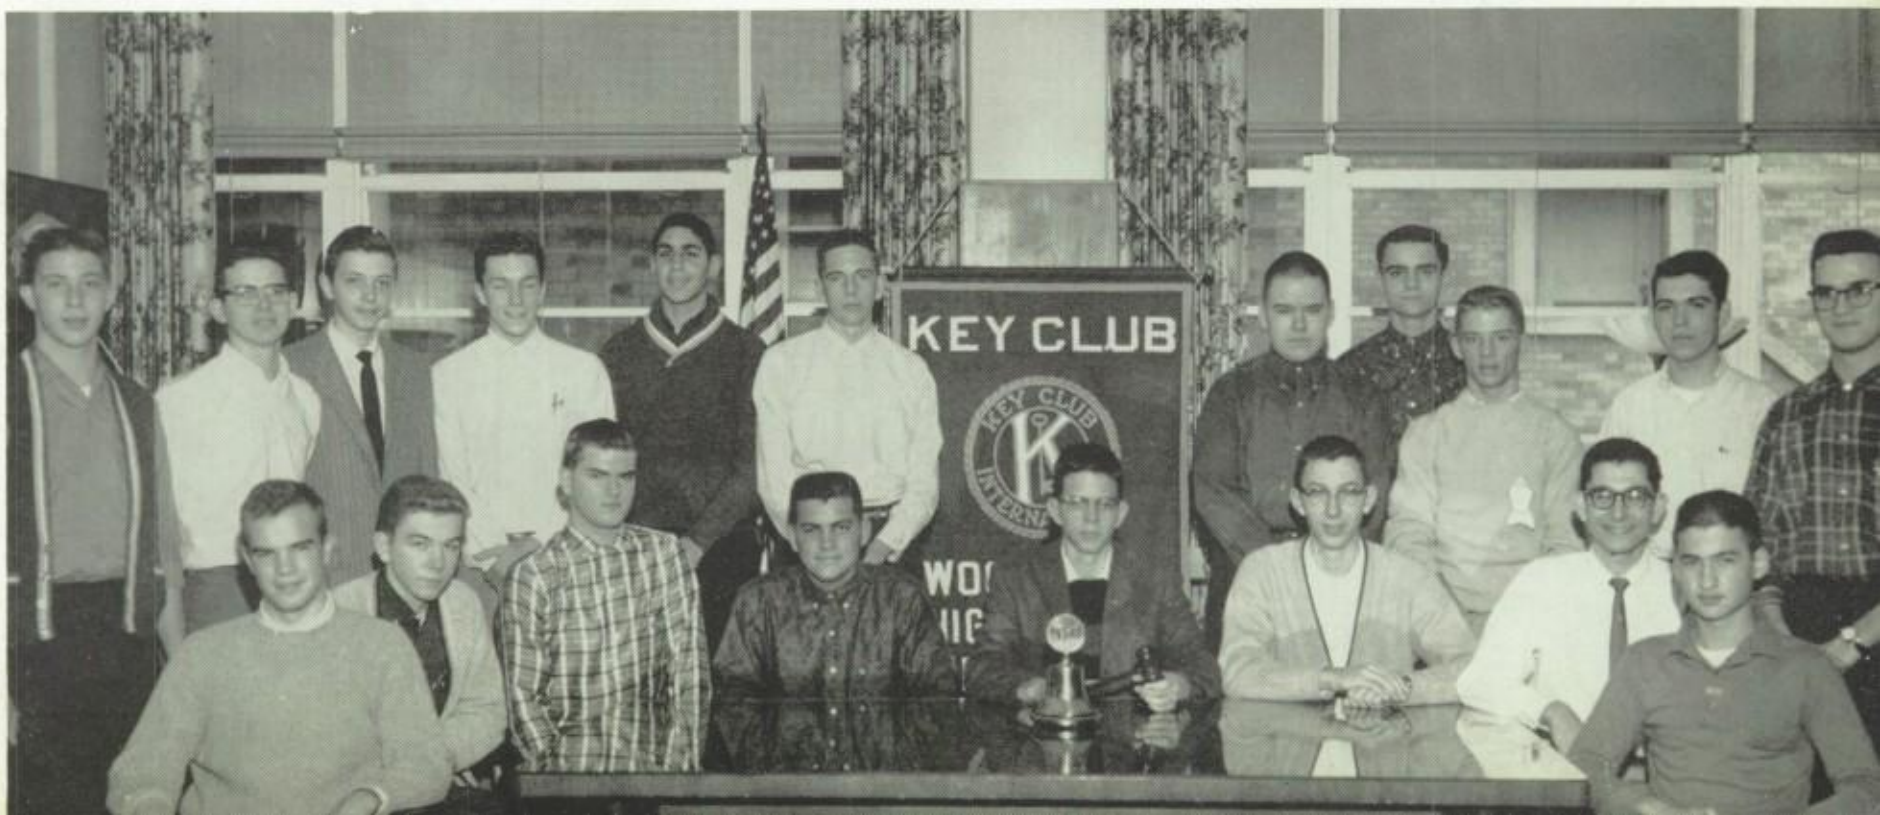
Diverse activities challenge the imagination, talents, and social desires of Woodward students; Debate Club develops forensic skill; Pep Club arouses spirit; honor societies emphasize scholarship; Drama Club stresses mastery of theatrical skills; Future Teachers prepares members for the future; publications test native talents. And students may choose from scores of other activities! Students working with classmates and advisors, planning social functions, and serving others acquire experience as valuable as the knowledge received in the classroom.

After-school work in the bookstore provides a part-time job for Barry Beckham and Bill Curry. Jim Leshner is the customer.



Look Mom, no head . . .

Key Club is an activity for which members must qualify. High scholastic standing is but one basis for selection. Seated: Andy Grant, Barry Beckham, Bill Caskey, Jim Miller, Bill Duning, Lester Schmerr, Joe Neumark, Jeff Kriendler. Standing: Jim Hawkins, Joe Boone, Bill Palmiter, Dan McPartlin, Art Rinsky, Ken Spice, Robert Lindwall, Mike Stone, Ron Brinkerhoff, Joel Farkas, Allen Cliffe. Not Pictured: Walter Schoettle, Steve Wilson, Dick Cohn, David Dombar, Steve Kraus.



Student Council President Carlo Martellotti lays a wreath on the Woodward statue on Founder's Day.

Since the new Woodward opened eight years ago, Student Council has played a great part in campus life. Comprised of representatives from each homeroom, the Council strives for three main objectives: promoting and developing democracy, acquiring leadership ability, and linking administration and students. Leadership was provided by The Executive Council, headed by President Carlo Martellotti and Vice President Judy Turner. This committee consists of nine junior-senior members working under the guidance of Mr. Joseph Horton. Projects for the 1961 school year included Citizenship Week, the institution of preschool breakfast, an after-school concession stand, health and safety week, the election of the "Citizen of the Month."

Treasures Staff Discovers Sixty-Onederful Solution To Problem of Themes

In two days, 2500 underclass annual pictures! This was a pleasant task for the photographers, however, with models like this. For results of the cameramen's work see pages 69-98.

Little do the majority of students at Woodward realize the time, work and complications involved in producing an annual. This year's TREASURES staff devoted many hot summer hours planning the layout for the theme, "That Wonderful Year," which they chose last spring. With the advent of September, however, the staff discovered that Sycamore High School had used this theme and many of the same ideas in its 1960 annual. Consequently, a different theme, "While We're Young," was set up. Work on it moved slowly. The staff's enthusiasm for the annual waned, until it tried "brainstorming" an idea for the cover. Staff member Jim Dempsey, lamenting the original theme and playing with words, laughingly coined "Sixty-onederful." With unanimous approval this idea became the theme of the 1961 WOODWARD TREASURES. The staff, now determined to put a host of memories from this Sixty-onederful year into a pictorial story, began its work with new zeal.

Bulldog Barks Keeps Students Posted With 36 Issues, 150 Pages

Under the literary supervision of Mr. Charles Warman and the business guidance of Mr. John Sunnenberg, the Bulldog Barks has published 36 issues with more than 150 pages of news, features and sports. Many issues contained special features, such as the fashion issue, the band issue with a complete account of its season, the holiday issue which pictured musical groups of the school, and a special Class Day issue for seniors. The second-annual Writer's Contest and the Royal Shuffle rounded out the year for the Bulldog Barks.

Brumph! Bandsman Herb Spencer summons all his wind to play the tuba.

Four score strong, the Senior Band, under the direction of Mr. Ernest Wolfle, logged many miles of marching and long hours of service to the school. It helped to spark school spirit at football games and pep assemblies. Daily practice sessions during football season enabled the band members to master intricate marching drills and to present unique exhibitions of them at each football game. The band also provided members for the Woodward Dance Band, for Showcase Band, and for Showcase specialty acts. Longest excursion this year was the trip to Ironton. Four officers headed the band's activities: Dave Hand, president; Gary Robins, vice president; Donna McKinney, secretary; and Ken Hyams, treasurer. New talent is auditioned and selected by Mr. Wolfle from the freshmen at Shroder, Schwab, and Woodward Junior High Schools.

At Assemblies, Showcase, Concerts

The combined Senior Choir and Ensemble under the direction of Mr. Robert MacSpadden, consisting of 134 members, this year sang in special assemblies for Thanksgiving, Christmas and Arbor Day. The choir's "Sound of Music" medley climaxed the Showcase of '61. The choir also performed for the public in a spring concert. The year's final assignment—singing at graduation, the last opportunity for the seniors to sing together. A special Christmas-time show on WLW-TV topped the long list of personal appearances for the Ensemble members.

Acting as a link between Junior and Senior Choir, the newly formed Sophomore Choir meets every day during school to increase their knowledge of music. These seventy-five tenth graders, under the direction of Mr. Robert MacSpadden, performed at Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies, and the Spring Concert. In the fall, the group went on an excursion to Schwab and Shroder Junior High Schools to sing.

Junior Choir, the largest junior high organization, performed in several school programs. The eighty students comprising this group appeared in Christmas assemblies, and in the annual Spring Concert. Sometimes it performed as a divided group, which includes two special ensembles, the triple trio and the girls quartet. Mrs. Alice Hollingsworth directed the choir.

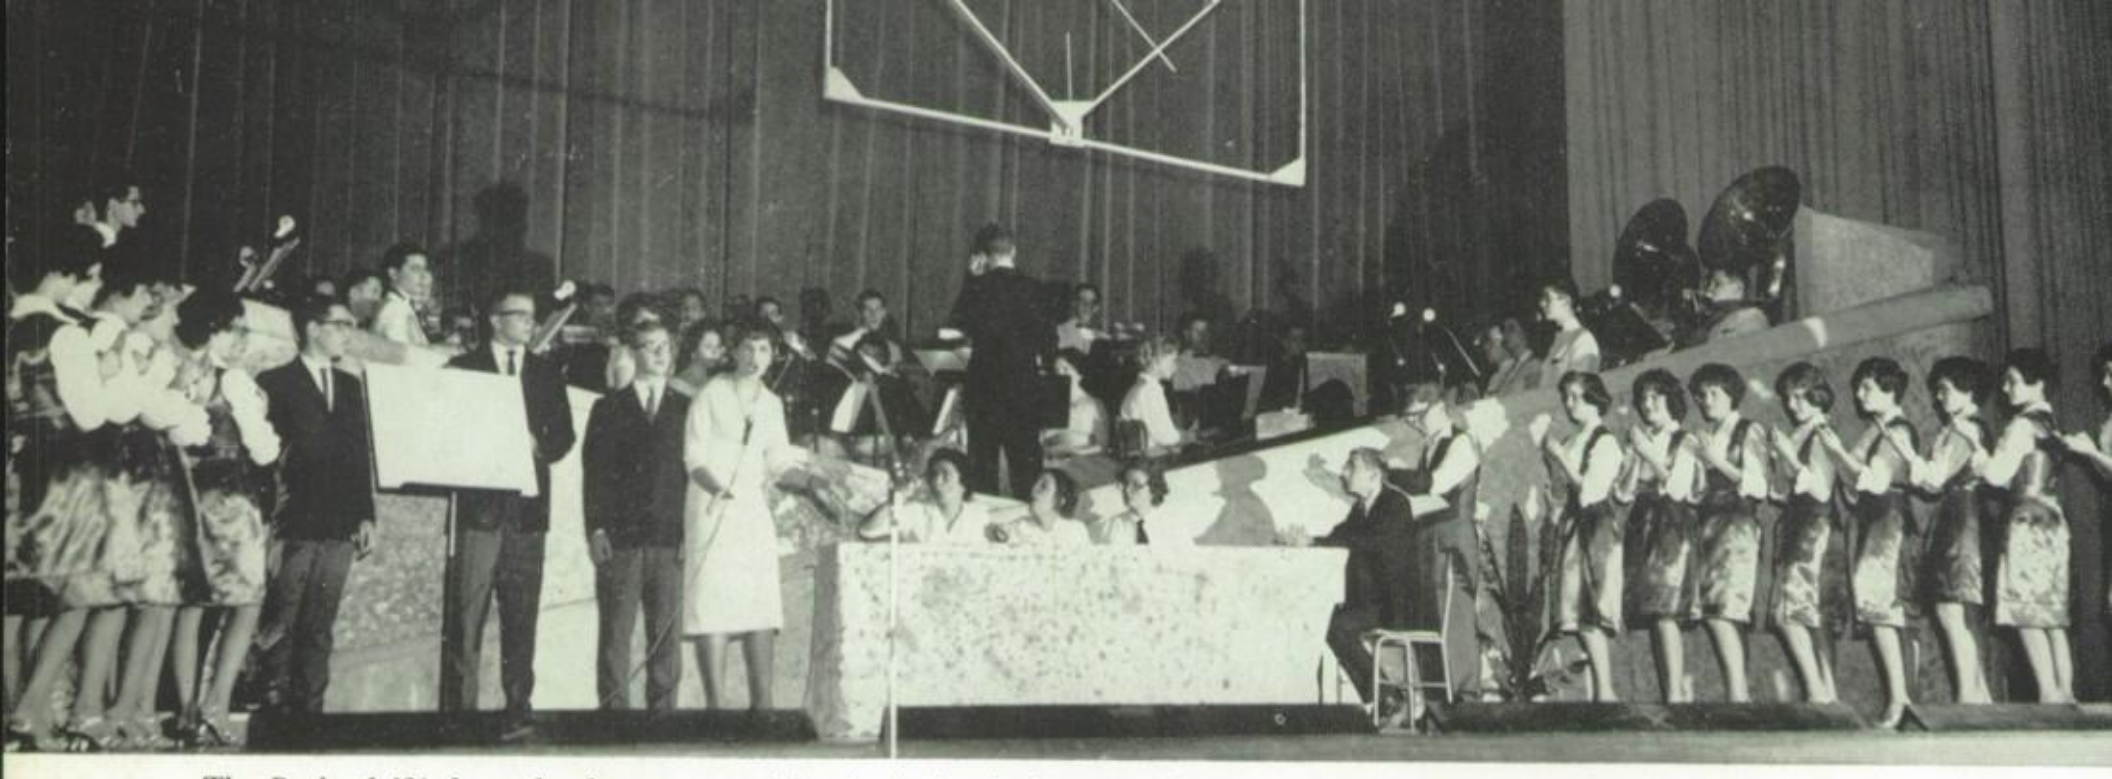
Girls, Boys Sing Glee-Fully in Clubs

The Girls' Glee Club, under the direction of Mrs. Hollingsworth and Mr. Robert MacSpadden, is composed of senior high girls who like to sing and to increase their knowledge of music. The Glee Club's performances at the Christmas assembly and Spring Concert reflect only a small part of the girls' classroom training in music.

The thirty selected members of Boys' Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. Robert MacSpadden, performed frequently during the year. They sang at the Christmas assembly and the Spring Concert. In the classroom they spent long hours of tedious practice to perfect their programs. As a service to the school, Glee Club performed whenever the school called upon them.

BOYS' GLEE CLUB—First Row: Dave Korros, Norman Menze, Tom Breyley, Dave Fox, Larry Schwendenman, Sam Bray, Marty Callner, Tom Hilton. Second Row: Barry Wooldridge, Carl Polinsky, John Baillie, Bill Spatta, Bruce Baum, Ron Baker, Doug Oppenheimer. Third Row: Sandy Fleisher, Jim Bennett, Bill McMahan, Robert Taylor, Major Weber, Jerry Dorn. Fourth Row: Cecil Burlew, Herb Margolis, Bill Stewart, Jerry Collins, Bill Rush, Jack Fielden. Fifth Row: Jonny Fleg, William Hill, Mitch Fram, Mike Jeffress.



The Bank of '61 faces the fiercest competition in its hundred-year history. "We need something big; we need a new switch!" exclaims Adeline Coppy (Barb Porter), the owner of a Madison Avenue advertising agency that handles the bank's ad campaign. She calls for a review of gimmicks used in the past to promote the bank.

"61 for Money" Showcases Zany Plot,

The centennial celebration of the Bank of 1861 was the theme for this year's Showcase, '61 for the money, presented at Woodward March 1, 2, 3, 4. The bank hired a Madison Avenue advertising firm to conduct the festivities. To find gimmicks used to promote the bank in the past, the firm reviewed the bank's hundred year history, placing particular emphasis on the Gay Nineties, the Roaring Twenties, the Depression and the War Years.

The 1861 bank tried a public interest angle and sponsored a square dance, where Nip Weigel and Judy McCarty entertained.

In the "gay nineties" the Albedarn citizens enjoyed the weekly concerts, where Cheryl Sterbling dances to the "LaSoiree dans Granade."

Sparkling Talent

After the concert the Albedarn husbands have suddenly disappeared. Their concerned wives become suspicious.

With all of the 1861 festivities, the fastest guns in the West were hired to keep a watch on the bank. The only problem was that they couldn't find the town. "Albedarn is that-a-way," explains Matt Dillon (Ken Shray) to Wyatt Earp (Mike Schwartz).

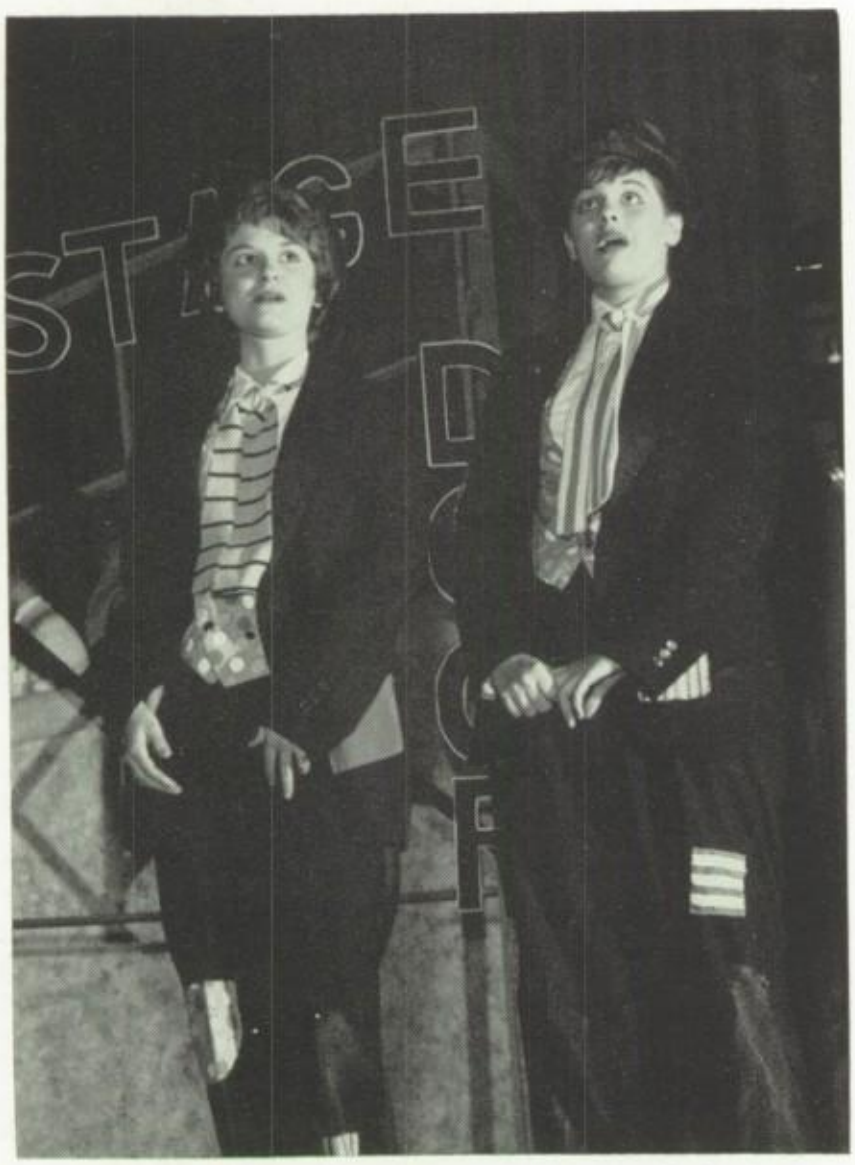
The husbands have sneaked off to the local tavern to have a beer and watch the Can-Can performed by the horse chorus.

Adeline seems fascinated as Mildew S. Trimbly (Mel Chudnoff) tells her more about the bank's history.

Bank's Ad Campaigns From Past Recounted In Dialog, Dance, Song

During the "Roaring Twenties" the town of Albedarn continued to prosper. It even had its own college, where after a victory game the mascots Cindy Cordes, Pat Schrader, and Patty Rapp) sing in the Campus Sweet Shoppe.

The Juniorettes celebrate the victory by dancing the rage of the time—the Charleston.



The review of the bank's history switches to the 1930's, the years of the Great Depression, when hoboes were a common sight, but Patty and Nancy Rapp seem to enjoy being bums as they sing, "A Couple of Swells."

a chair her only prop.

Senior Chorines, portraying hoboes, dance to "The Lady Is A Tramp."

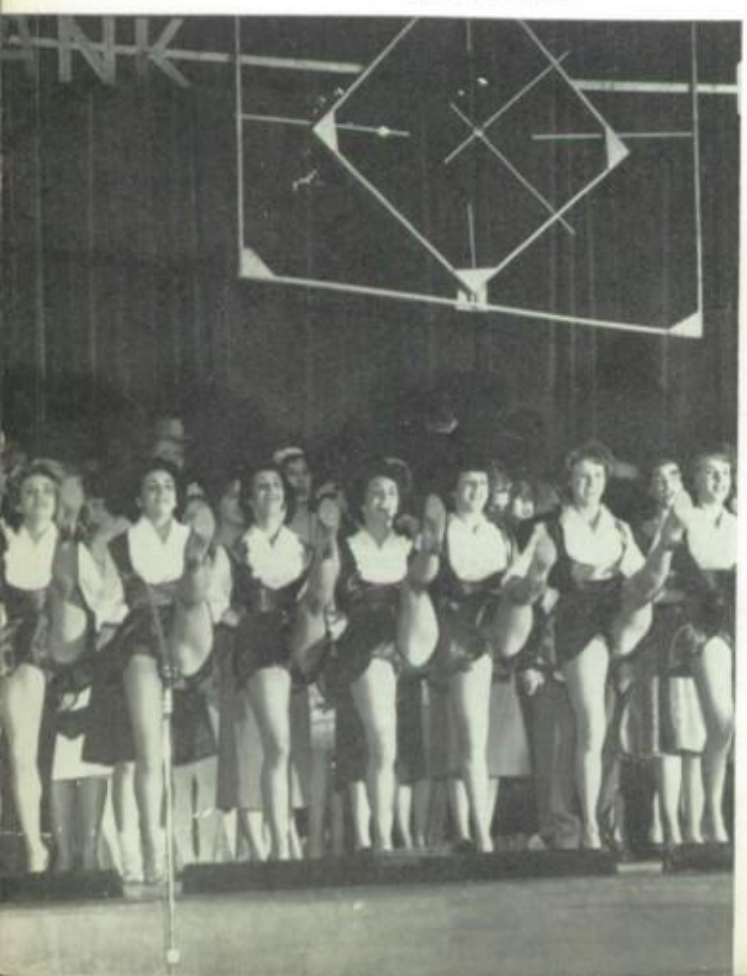
In the Forties, Renee Schwartz entertains at the USO, a servicemen hangout.

Returning to the present, the board of directors of the Bank of '61—Adeline, Cyrus (Jerry Hasden), Prudence (Barb Lauterbach), Patience (Maureen Rodd), Penelope (Pat Luers)—pay tribute to retiring bookkeeper Trimbly.

The Senior Choir sings selection from a current Broadway hit, "The Sound of Music."

In the end, Mildew discovers that his great-great-great-grandfather had loaned the bank a lot of money on interest. Now, with the accumulated interest, he can buy and sell the bank. He consults his lawyers—Mr. Robert Anderson, Mr. Ronald Aug, Mr. Ted Diesenroth, Mr. Robert MacSpadden, Mr. John Anaple, Mr. Joseph Horton. They give the go-ahead.

"Woodward had done it again with the 1961 Showcase. . . ." The entire cast sings the finale.



Lawyers' Lyric Advice Hilarious Climax to Plot

During the tiresome wait between acts, some of the cast members entertain themselves by playing cards. Diane Stone watches Ron Thomas and Kathy Royce.

Janet Schneider, Joan Siegel, Stephenie Zappin, Fran Schreiberg, and Sandy Strong pass the time by indulging in a good, clean gossip session.

A cast member's biggest problem is keeping up with his studies. Many students bring their books and work whenever they can.

After the show, exhausted cast members listen as Mr. Robert MacSpadden, the director, explains what improvements are needed.

Drama Club Stages Two Plays, Builds Interest in Theater Art

Woodward Drama Club, through its various activities, creates and stimulates interest in dramatics. This year the club presented two dramatic productions, "The Matchmaker," a three-act comedy by Thornton Wilder, and "The Crucible," a two-act drama by Arthur Miller. Several members of the club presented one act of "The Matchmaker" at a Thespian conference at Miami University. In the Hamilton County Play Contest, Drama Club placed first with the one-act play, "A Day After Forever."

"Now you see on the card here it says, um, let's see . . . . . over there, see that blue thing? Well, um . . . put this over on the other side and slide it about halfway but don't knock over that can of whatever it is." (Mr. Ronald Aug directs stage crew member Chuck Porter.)

Pondering over scripts and posters are Drama Club's sponsor Mr. Ronald Aug, and officers Barb Porter, president; Norman Menze, clerk; Janet Freudenberg, secretary; Jim Miller, treasurer, and Pat Trachsel, vice president.

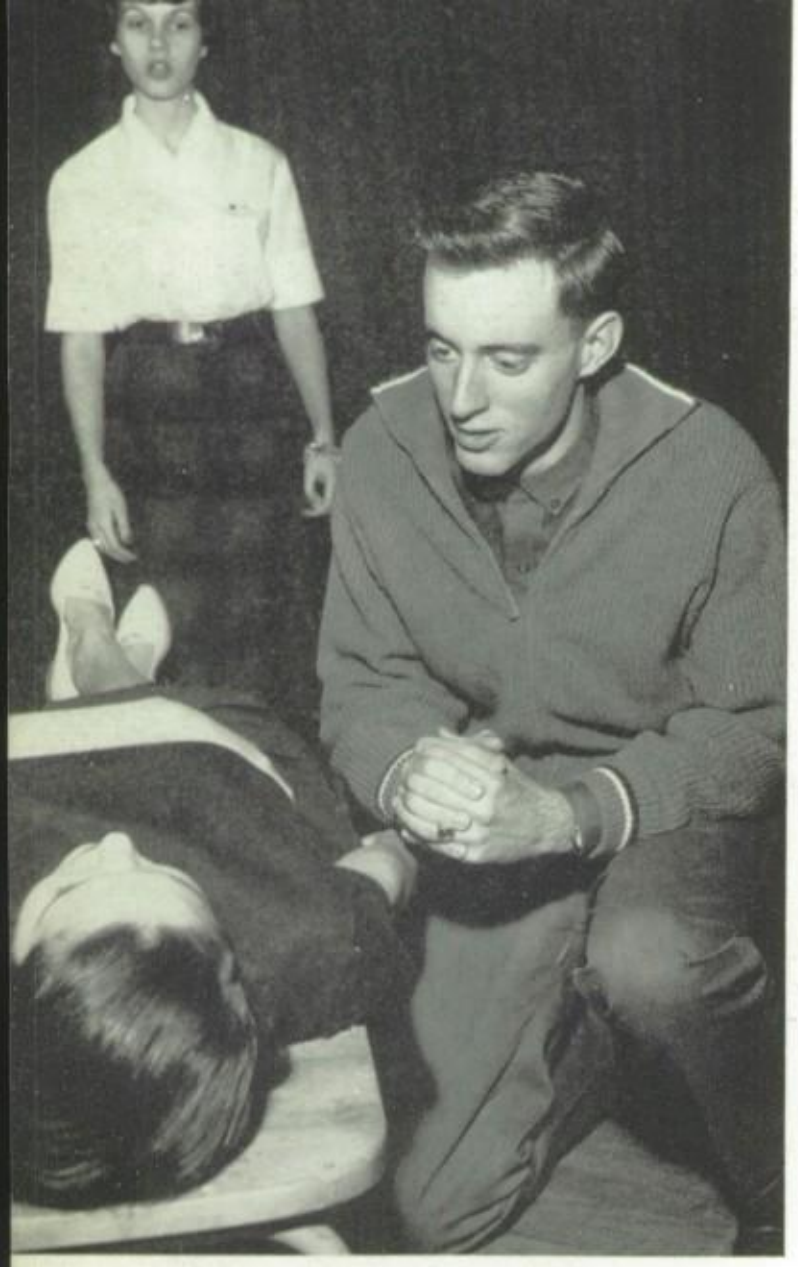
Barb Lauterbach in action as Mrs. Levi, the lead role in the "Matchmaker."

In "The Matchmaker," the story of a crotchety old widower, Horace Vandergelder (Mike Frank), enlists the services of a matchmaker, Mrs. Dolly Levi (Barb Lauterbach). Thus the rich Yonkers merchant leaves for New York to meet his prospective bride, Mrs. Molly (Lynn Wagner). On the same day his niece, Ermengarde (Nancy Stephenson), elopes and his two clerks, Barnaby (Norman Menze) and Cornelius (Jerry Hasden), escape for a holiday in the "wicked" city of New York. After the chaos recedes Mr. Vandergelder finds himself engaged to Mrs. Levi, Cornelius is engaged to Mrs. Molly, and Ermengarde is permitted to marry her sweetheart.

"The Matchmaker" Marries Many

The "Matchmaker" cast glows with pride at curtain call. Standing: Sharon Medros, Mel Chudnof, Peggy Hirshberg, Joe Johnson, Marilyn Sollman, Sandy Dassinger, Jane Berhle, Norman Menze, Barb Lauterbach, Mike Frank, Lynn Wagner, Jerry Hadsden, Joel Farkas, Nancy Stephenson, Charlene Bass, John Snyder, and Anita Bernstein.

Behind the scenes Barb Lauterbach nervously opens a telegram of congratulations while Mike Frank and Karen Pilder eagerly watch.

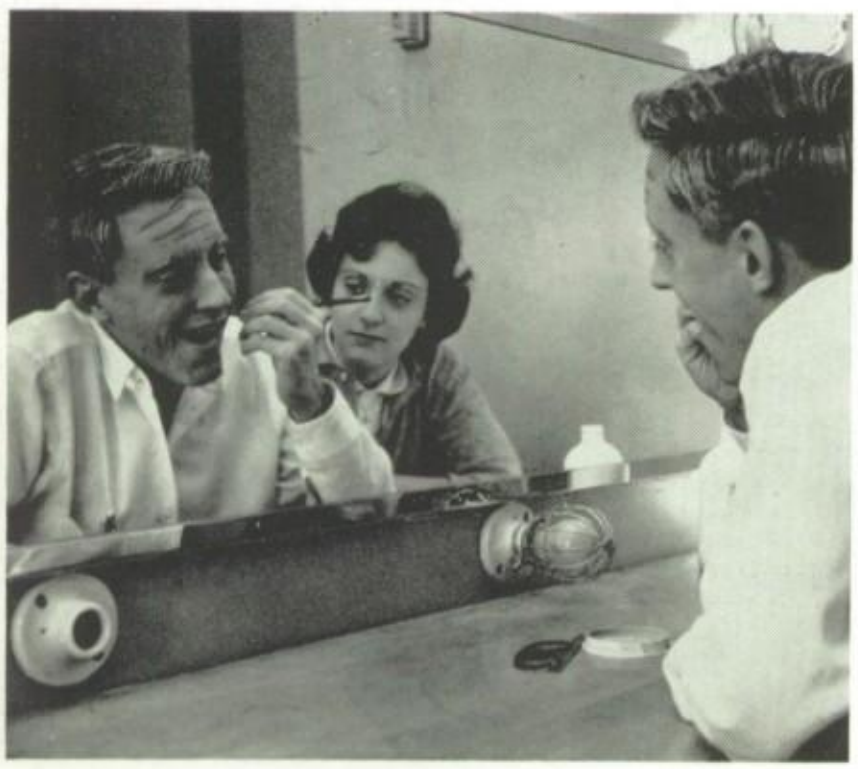


Reverend Hale (John Rine) prays over his daughter (Judy Gleser) who is in a trance suspectedly caused by witchcraft, as Abigail appears. (Pat Trachsel).

Mr. Ronald Aug gives Coralee Drake, student director of "The Crucible," a few tips from his drama experience on producing a play.

Salem Witchcraft Trials Relived in "The Crucible"

Make-up is the secret to all stage productions. John Rine and Carol Morton are shown preparing for the "Crucible."



Preparing for his role as Proctor, Bill Neff raises his arm to whip Carol Moscowitz, who is Mary in the play. Barbara Porter watches, dumbfounded.

"The Crucible" opens in the spring of 1692. The Reverend Samuel Parris (John Rine) of Salem finds his niece and his daughter with a group of girls, dancing around a cauldron in the forest. His daughter, Betty (Judy Glaser), becomes ill after this incident and Parris sends for Rev. Hale of Beverly (Jerry Hasden) to see if her illness is caused by the influence of the Devil. Under questioning, his niece, Abigail (Pat Trachsel), tries to defend herself by claiming that she has seen others with the Devil. Once started, the panic spreads; people begin to accuse others of witchcraft anyone whose land they want or with whom they disagree. By the time these people regain their senses some of the most respectable people in Salem have been hanged.

Here, in an early rehearsal, members of the "Crucible" cast, script in hand, begin to grasp the characters they must portray.

All the work and time needed in preparing a production is useless unless there is an audience. Here, Ann Kabakoff sells tickets for "The Crucible."

Theatre Guild Presents Vibrant Comedy, Drama

Vibrant comedies and exciting dramas are end-products of junior drama club. But much more happens behind the scenes. Under the supervision of Mr. John Anaple, junior drama club devotes its activities to furthering student interest in American drama.

Sound Mind, Body, Spirit Goal of Hi-Y Clubbers

Hi-Y is an organization of Woodward boys dedicated to building sound mind, body, and spirit. They aim at high scholarship, participate in athletics and observe various devotions. Hi-Y works with the faculty and student body to serve the school.

WFAE Airs News; Radio Club "Hams" All

Woodward's "most effective channel of communication," WFAE, broadcasts daily the most important announcements on curricular and extracurricular activities. Operating as a service organization, WFAE is co-ordinated by a staff of directors, continuity writers, and announcers. Welcoming the commencement of the school day, they call to mind the importance of memorable holidays and the opportunities afforded by the many extracurricular activities throughout the year.

The Radio Club, under the supervision of Mr. William Creighton, is one of the most resourceful organizations at Woodward. The club members decided that they wanted a more powerful antenna than the one presently in use. For one entire weekend, they washed cars to raise the money for parts. They assembled the antenna, erected it, and put it into operation.

Mexicans Guests Of Spanish Club; French Club Hears Exchange Student

French Club under the supervision of Mr. Tom D'Amico is both active and philanthropic. Besides participating in the language club party, the club listened to a foreign exchange student, Yves Pasteur, speak about French teenagers and education. Its main ambition was to purchase a tape recorder for Woodward's French department, so that all French students may gain a better understanding of the language.

Woodward Spanish Club members this year were twice challenged to put their Spanish to practical use. During the Christmas vacation some of the members had students from Mexico as guests in their homes. Later, in February, the club went to the Spanish Inn. The club presented a skit in the language club Christmas Party.

Games, Plays on Latin Club Agenda; German Club Active in Christmas Party

Latin Club provides its members an opportunity to learn the Latin Language and culture. The club's activities this year included Latin word games, playlets, films and lectures. Excerpts from outstanding Latin and Greek dramas were also produced. Three members of the club presented a sketch from the Platinus' comedy, "The Captives." The club presented a sketch from the Aeneid at the Language Club Christmas Party. Miss Elizabeth Rottenburger sponsors this group.

"Eins, zwei, drei," the German most of us know, is but a small percentage of the knowledge of the German language and German people possessed by the members of Der Zeitgest, Woodward's German Club. The group is led by Mr. Curtis Sanger, sponsor, and Nick Sommer, president. Club members presented a typical German Christmas scene at the Language Club Christmas Party.

Ever-Changing Global Problems Topic For World Affairs Members, Debate Club

In seven matches this year, the Woodward varsity debate team members won thirty-five contests and lost but seven. Guided by Mr. John Anaple, the four varsity members copped the coveted first place trophies at the New Richmond, Urbana, and Walnut Hills tournaments. At the climax of the season, Woodward battled for the district title and missed the state finals when Princeton, 1960 state champs, edged them out for district honors.

To understand the situations of the world, many Woodward students participate in the Council on World Affairs sponsored by Mr. Francis Hamel. This year the Woodward Council had a joint meeting with the Senior Honor Society at which a Lebanese university student spoke on the economic, political and social status of his country. Besides these discussions on world situations, the Council on World Affairs presented many films of world interest.

Hobbies Shared in Chess, Camera Clubs

Camera Club members, advised by Mr. Joseph Horton and Mr. Celio Bongiani, began a dark room crew to develop Bulldog Barks and TREASURES photographs. A field trip to Brown County was rained out in the fall; the shutterbugs made a spring camping trip to Kentucky. Besides these trips, the year's agenda included two guest speakers.

The Woodward Chess Club, directed by Mr. Robert Connelly, meets after school every Friday. Throughout the year, the club held competitive matches with other high schools in the area. Occasionally an outside speaker discussed the finer points of the game with the members. The boys developed the ability to analyze and to anticipate as they improve their chess game.

Art Club Finds Outlet for Talent

Art Club members, supervised by Mr. David Redfern, of Woodward gained valuable experience through the club's various projects and activities. Projects in which Art Club participated this year included Homecoming Dance decorations, hall decorations at Christmas time, and Showcase scenery. Bake sales and other money-making projects enabled members to make frames for outstanding students' art work so that it may be displayed in the halls. Excursions included two sketching trips to the Art Museum, art shows, and a tour of the Gibson Art Company.

Art Club members prepare scenery for Showcase: Gayle Marsh, Louise Simmons, Sue Fahrenbruck, Pam Glossi, and Sue Hobson.

Maryetta Dray, as a member of Art Club, which designs Showcase scenery, finishes the band set used in this year's production.

Tom Cadell, Frank Feiler, Judy Turner, and Kathy Royce decorate a showcase for Christmas.

Art League Proposes Hall of Fame, Court

Art League carried out several projects to serve the school this year. It purchased two paintings by faculty members and started a Hall of Fame. Two deserving and talented art students, whose names go on the Hall of Fame plaque, will be selected for this honor each year. Art League also began plans to landscape the court, named the Quadrangle in a contest the group sponsored.

Future Business Leaders of America, advised by Mrs. Anita Wendel, is open to tenth, eleventh and twelfth graders enrolled in business subjects. The members learn many aspects of the business world by hearing speakers and by visiting business firms. FBLA members strive to develop a knowledge of the business world, to grow in personality and leadership, and to render service to the school and the community.

Students enrolled in merchandising are permitted to join DECA, Distributive Education Clubs of America. This year DECA sold autograph animals and sponsored an open house, the "Baby Bounce." The profits from these projects went toward the Employer's Appreciation Banquet, held at the end of school. Mrs. Helen Bowers, sponsor, and Bill Kees, president, of both Woodward's DECA and the Ohio Region of DECA, directed the organization.

Sponsor: Mrs. Helen Bowers. First Row: Carol Kamman, June Carter, Peggy Lang, Bonnie Blake, Joyce Bammerlin, Larry Goldsmith, Pat Baker, Judy Runtz, Roberta Powers. Second Row: Kathie Mullenix, Donna Loper, Janice Whitaker, Mitch Goldberg, Harold Bear, Barry Shnider, Pat Farley, Pat Ailshire, Vivian Beavers, Susan Hoeweler. Third Row: Roscoe Brock, Don Hauk, Ron Fogel, Stanley Deichman, Joe Dennis, Joe Newmark, Errol King, Mark Lefton, Ken Vandiver, Ronald Hahn. Fourth Row: Michael Mason, Charles Gehring, Jim Wyler, Philip Bell, Steve Gaible, William Wells, Carl Backer, Bill Kees, Barry Rost.

Miss Wanda Lunsford and members of the Health Careers Club—Miss Lunsford, Tillie Richter, Connie Eichhorst, Karen Stuhlbarg, Susan Perrine, and Sylvia Gordon.

Vocational Interest Stressed In F. T. A., Health Careers

Students in grades nine through twelve with a "C" average and an interest in a health-field vocation are qualified to join Health Careers Club. Miss Wanda Lunsford sponsors the organization. The club's purpose is to provide information for its members about the types of work available in health. This year two student nurses, a physical therapist, and a medical technician from General Hospital spoke to the group about their jobs.

With the guidance of Miss Ruby Compton, Future Teachers of America took part in many activities this year. An all-day trip to U.C. in which the members toured the campus and talked with the Dean of the Teachers College highlighted the year. Another project of the club was the city-wide F.T.A. meeting at Western Hills at which the plans and ideas of the Woodward chapter were compared with those from other schools.

Exciting Year for Chi Sigma Delta

Chi Sigma Delta's 1961 calendar was crowded with activities. A trip to the mystifying Orient or an excursion into the memorable past cast the atmosphere for the rush parties. Open houses, bake sales, slumber parties, rummage sales, and stags were other Chi Sig's activities. "Annabel," a fund to support a young girl in Italy, was one of the philanthropic projects. An open affair at the Hayloft Party Barn, a Mother-Daughter Tea, spring and summer formals, and the Alumni Tea, completed Chi Sig's calendar.

Greek Letter Dance Highlight Kytyves Year

The girls of Delta Kytyves Epsilon kept busy with slumber parties, formals, bake sales, open houses, and philanthropic projects.

The highlight of the year was the annual Greek Letter Dance. Kytyves also had a Christmas and spring formal, a Halloween party, the "Basketball Bounce" open house, and a slumber party with another sorority.

Kytyves girls also found time to do volunteer work. They "adopted" a family of twelve and supplied them with food, clothing, and Christmas gifts. They also gave Easter baskets to Allen House.

Calendar Jammed, Kappas Kept Busy

Kappa Phi Delta's calendar was filled with activity. The sorority's activities began with plans for its two rush parties. When rushing season passed, the girls had an autumn harvest party with a bonfire. Later, during the Yule season, they had a Christmas formal at the Queen City Club. Pledge class bake sales, slumber parties, date parties, and open houses filled the weekends in January and February. An annual weekend and a spring formal ended the school activities while the summer still offered a trip to Lake Shaefer. While planning these events Kappas met regularly to make posters and throwouts to advertise their candidates and open houses.

Omega Combines Social and Philanthropic

It is the custom for the sorority to give its seniors bracelets. Here, junior Judy Friedman gives President Evelyn Spiegel her bracelet. Taking part in the presentation are the following: Linda Schwartz, publicity chairman; Marcia Claybon, corresponding secretary; Marcia Brant, treasurer; Barbara Taylor, vice president; Evelyn Spiegel, president; Barbara Lauterbach, sergeant at arms; Judy Friedman; Marian Kulback, philanthropic chairman; Mim Geiser, corresponding secretary; Shei'a Charkins, recording secretary; and Cookie Camins, social chairman.

Omega Sigma Phi sorority's agenda this year combined social affairs and philanthropic projects. The sorority sponsored its annual Christmas dance, a spring hobo affair, and a spring formal. A summer boatride, numerous stags, and two rush parties rounded out its social activities. Money-making projects included a rummage sale, an open house, and a car wash. Money earned from these projects, purchased a medical device for Children's Hospital.

While carrying out these projects, Omegas united in a loyal sisterhood. The red and white of Omega, the distinctive pin with the nine pearls—both symbolize the "bond of friendship so true and rare" described in Omega's creed.

Omega juniors are gaining the experience needed to carry on the sorority next year. First Row: Alice Cohen, Anita Bernstein. Second Row: Judy Friedman, Judy Glaser, Linda Hasden, Judy Smith, Saralee Azouz. Third Row: Elaine Effron, Lillie Senor, Sandy Deskins, Eve Askush, Lois Nathan, Eileen Kabakoff.

Nineteen sixty-one produced exciting and interesting events for the Sigma Lambda Chi's. These activities, philanthropic as well as social, helped to create unity in the sorority.

After spending two weeks at Buckeye Lake during the summer, the Sigma's worked hard on two African rush parties. The Christmas Dinner-Dance at Hartwell Country Club, and the Annual "Pow Wow" open house rounded out the fall activities. Several date parties, philanthropic projects at the City Gospel Mission, and the Mother-Daughter Banquet and Spring Formal at Moonlight Gardens concluded the year.

Tally-Ho Scores First—

Crown Sophos at Dance

A famous first for Tally-Ho was their Pledge Prince and Princess Dance when, for the first time in Woodward's history, two sophomores were crowned Prince and Princess. Three Tally-Ho's won crowns and titles at important dances. Sue Lominac at Homecoming, Melissa McGregor at Royal Shuffle, and Ginger Tietmeyer at Mardi Gras.

Working together on philanthropic projects, rummage sales, and bake sales, planning sorority pot lucks, open houses, formals, date parties with fraternities, and slumber parties, develops Tally-Ho's own true "esprit de corps." Tally-Ho's also spend two weeks together at their cottage at Lake James.

Graduation Claims Founding Tausias

Although Tausia sorority at Woodward is only two years old, its forty-four members have already made it a well established group. Philanthropic work, bake and candy sales, and paper drives are just a few of the worthwhile activities in which the Tausias participated. Tausia's periodic go-to-church Sunday helps the girls to understand the true meaning of sorority companionship. Besides slumber parties and date affairs, Tausia girls find time to participate in Showcase, G.A.A., Art Club, and Ensemble. With the help of their closely related Mothers' Club, Tausias develop a sense of responsibility.

Sigma Theta Pi National Since 1919; Mardi Gras Success for G. K.

Sigma Theta Pi is a national sorority, composed of sixteen chapters in the United States and Canada. Woodward's delta chapter was founded in 1919 at another school, and has since grown in size and activities. In the fall S.T.P. gave the Presidential Ball with Phi Rho, two rush parties, and a pledge and formal initiation. During Christmas vacation S.T.P. gave their annual winter formal which turned out to be a gala affair. Next on the agenda was the Mother-Daughter Tea, Parents' Banquet, and spring formal. Open houses, parties, and stags filled the other days on the calendar, and gave an added zest to S.T.P.'s year.

Gamma Kappa sorority had a full calendar of activities in which it participated this year. An autumn bake sale began the year's projects. Rushing and pledging consumed the girls' time in November and December. A Christmas formal, followed by a breakfast at one of the girl's homes highlighted the holiday season. In addition, the sorority held three open houses—the Pre-Mardi Gras with Phi Epsilon, one with Phi Rho Delta, and one with Phi Beta Gamma. In March came the Mardi Gras, a combined Gamma Kappa-Phi Epsilon project. Concluding the year's activities was a spring formal and a mother-daughter initiation banquet.

Senior Send-Off Caps COS's Active Year

When school resumed in September, Chi Omega Sigma started holding regular bi-monthly meetings. Much of the time at the earlier meetings was spent planning rush parties. The fraternity and its pledges presented a Christmas program for the aged at Drake Memorial Hospital. Also, in the Yule season, C.O.S. held its annual Christmas formal. In January they gave the traditional C.O.S. Sweetheart Dance. Open houses and date parties were sprinkled through the calendar. The year ended with the Senior-sendoff, when the families of each member joined together for an all day picnic. All these facets of the group's activities helped to mold it into a fraternity.

Delta Beta Enjoys a Year of Varied Activities

Delta Beta, an organization founded upon tradition and brotherhood, has many athletic, social, and philanthropic projects as well as intangible benefits. The Delta Beta calendar began in September with philanthropic work at Goodwill Industries and a profitable paper drive. In October came the Delta Beta-Tally-Ho Date Party and a Halloween Party at Mike Shore's. November brought a Las Vegas Luau at Bill Finch's and rush parties. Pledging, a pledge class raffle, and a Christmas formal with the Wyoming chapter, rounded out the Yule Season. In January, activities were limited to the pledge's Hell Night and a New Year's Eve Party. Delta Beta's open house highlighted April. A May formal climaxed the year.

Phi Beta Gamma Plans Spring Party

Phi Beta Gamma fraternity cooperated to plan its activities, such as its regular date parties and an annual spring party. Every other Sunday the Phi Betas gathered at a member's home for a meeting at which ideas to plan these events were exchanged and problems ironed out. Even while participating in these fraternity affairs, Phi Beta Gamma's found time to participate in school affairs. Phi Beta Gamma brotherhood grew stronger as its members worked toward common goals and shared common experiences.

Phi Epsilon seeks to develop spirit and brotherhood; these are the traits on which the members thrive. The fraternity emphasizes these two qualities in their efforts to develop young men with good character.

Since its founding in 1896, the fraternity has been strong in tradition. This year's Mardi Gras, Phi Ep's annual dance, was the biggest in history. Well over a thousand people attended to see the sixteen candidates from three schools. At least once each month, a fraternity affair is planned by the vice president and his committee. The fraternity's social year is highlighted by the traditional spring week end. It usually consists of a boat ride, a dance, and other affairs.

Phi Rho Undefeated In '61 Football

Philanthropic projects, inter-club activities, and social affairs combined to make a rewarding year for Phi Rho Delta fraternity. Participating in inter-fraternity athletics, the group had an undefeated football season. With Sigma Theta Phi sorority, it sponsored its annual candidate dance, the Presidential Ball, to raise money. In addition to these activities, Phi Rho held a Christmas dinner-dance, several open houses, many weekend affairs, and monthly fraternity parties. The group also enjoyed the annual family dinner with the Parents' Club, which guides the group in its activities. These events left impressions of a successful fraternity year for the members of Phi Rho Delta.

The officers of Phi Rho Delta include Larry Osky, vice president; Jim Miller, treasurer; and Jeff Paul, president. Not pictured are Dick Klein, secretary, and Jeff Hart, corresponding secretary.

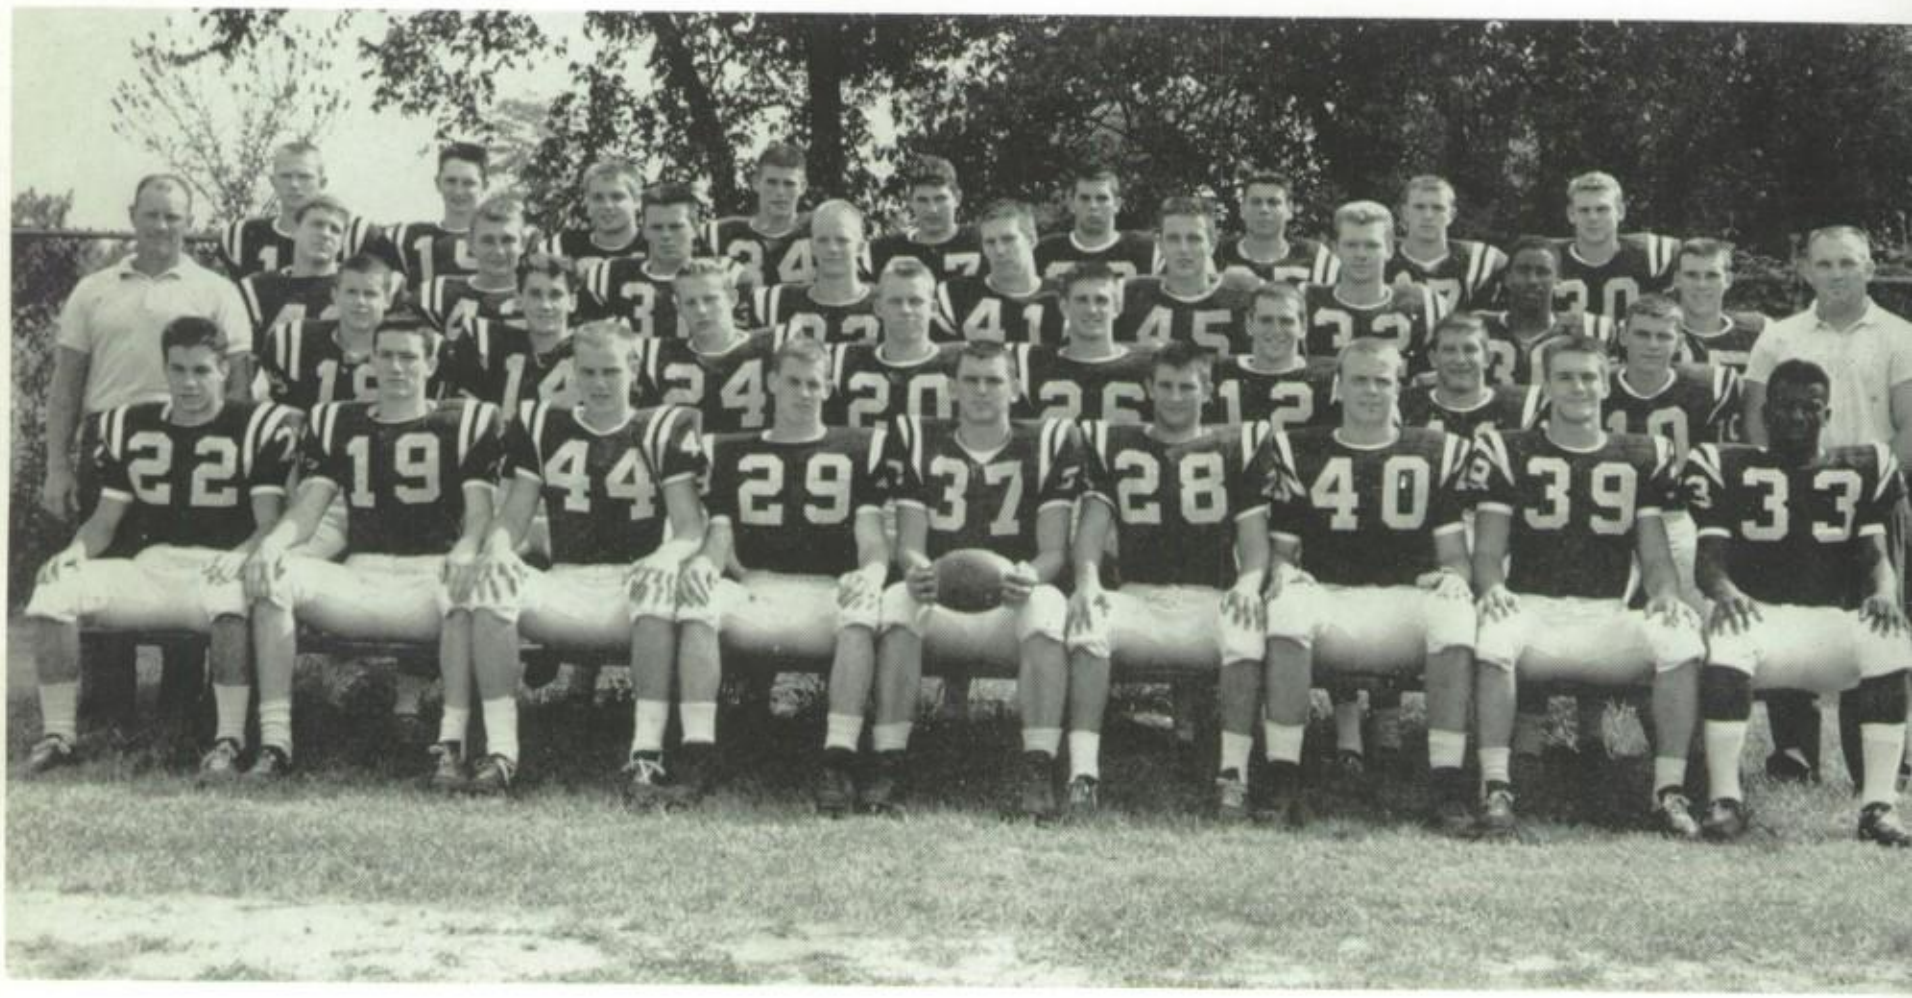
Varsity's Record Is 8-1-1;

Best in School's History

1961 VARSITY FOOTBALL SQUAD—First Row: J. Fielden, B. Neff, B. Hill, J. Irwin, S. Hendricks, A. Mosher, J. Pearce, D. Mahan, A. Jackson. Second Row: Coach Dougherty, J. Labavitch, L. White, E. Southard, P. Johnston, D. Cottier, J. Collins, B. Taylor, D. Binford, Coach Campbell. Third Row: D. Schneider, S. Wilson, J. McCallum, A. Studt, D. Loveless, C. Porter, T. Adams, B. Peterson, D. Stoddard. Fourth Row: D. Oakley, B. Richardson, L. Nipper, T. Otto, B. Rush, J. Vockel, B. Gillman, B. Turner, D. Wheeler.



Although Woodward's football team did not recapture the P.H.S.L. championship, they compiled an 8-1-1 record—the best in the school's history.

Coaches Jim Dougherty and Jack Campbell and the Bulldogs fought the Wyoming Cowboys in a grueling 0-0 tie in the season opener. Woodward then trounced McNicholas and Ironton.

P.H.S.L. competition opened up with the Bulldogs whipping the Western Hills Mustangs under the lights of Trecther Stadium. The offensive line consisting of John Irwin, Bill Hill, Steve Hendricks, Al Mosher, Jim Pearce, Buzzy Peterson, and Tom Otto opened up gaps in the Mustang line for speedster backs Bob Taylor, Azell Jackson, and Ed Southard.

The next two games with Walnut Hills and Hughes were pretty much the same story. The Bulldogs' superior running, blocking, and rushing were too much to handle for either the Eagles or the Big Reds.

Trecther Stadium was the scene of the play off game between the league leaders Taft and Woodward. The first quarter was scoreless. The second period had just gotten under way when Cleon Edwards, a Taft speedster, scored on a run off tackle. The extra point attempt failed and the Senators led 6-0. The Bulldogs didn't give up, however, a late period drive, capped by an Azell Jackson run, put the Bulldogs on the Taft one-yard line. But time ran out and the score remained 6-0 at the half. In the third period the Bulldogs fought back to add a marker of their own. The extra point failed and the score was tied 6-6. In the fourth quarter Edwards scampered 70 yards for another Taft TD. No sooner had the Bulldogs recovered from that one, when Taft again scored. In the final seconds of the game, a gallant effort was displayed by the Bulldogs when Dwight Cottier hit Buzzy Peterson on a 15-yard-pass play. The extra point was good and the game ended 18-14 with the Senators victorious.

Mariemont, Withrow, and Central were easy victims for the Bulldogs and the season ended with a 8-1-1 record.

The Reserve football team, under the direction of Coach Art Paul and Coach George Diersing, sported a record of five wins and two losses. One of these victories was in a non-conference game with the Purcell Cavaliers, a long time nemisis of Woodward, by the score of 38-12. After losing the league opener, the Reserve Bulldogs roared back and won four straight games over Taft, Central, Western Hills, and Hughes. In these four games, the Reserves scored 76 points while the opposition scored but 6. Through the experience gained this year, the Reserves will give the varsity extra depth in the future.

Woodward's Bullpups compiled a record of two wins and five losses. There was some improvement shown as the Bullpup's demonstrated when they won their two games by decisive victories over Lyons and Eastern Hills, 14-0 and 26-0. Tom Dyer and Ron Renfro, potential top scorers, suffered severe leg injuries which resulted in their missing many weeks of practice and games. Other top players were Jim Evans, Tom Woodward, and Doug Oppenhiemer.

Woodward's Bulldogs completed a very unpredictable 1960-61 basketball season with a 9-9 record. The Bulldogs surpassed the preseason predictions of their coach, Mr. Sid Friedman, who expected his squad to win but six ball games. After losing their first three games, the Bulldogs came back to break even in games with four of the District Tournament seeded teams. They beat Withrow and Taft, and lost to Elder and McNicholas. The squads roster explains why Coach Friedman hoped for just six victories. The team included only three returning lettermen, and lacked overall height and team speed. It seemed reasonable to predict that the Bulldogs would be out-rebounded in nearly every game. But led by the five seniors who carried the club all season, the Bulldogs combined desire and fine shooting to put together a midseason winning streak that revived their hope for a .500 season. The winning streak was climaxed by a 68-65 victory over district champion Withrow. Joe Gutzwiller paced his team in scoring 29 points. Biggest disappointment of the season came when the Bulldogs were upset in the first round of District Tournament play by unheralded Amelia. A victory over Amelia would have made it very easy for the cagers to advance to the semi-finals.

The Woodward reserve basketball squad won seven games and lost eleven. The victories were over St. Xavier, Princeton, Walnut Hills, Withrow, Western Hills, and Hughes. The last two wins were overtime thrillers. This record was good enough to place the squad fourth in the final league standings. Co-captains Tom Ballard and Tim Allred led the team in scoring as well as in rebounding. Ron Kellerman exhibited great defensive play. Jack Loh's early season all-around play earned him a spot on Coach Sid Friedman's varsity squad.

Bullpups Cop Second in Eastern PHSL

The Bullpups, despite some early season losses, came back with a smashing winning streak to end up tied for second in the junior P.H.S.L. Eastern League with Samuel Ach. They compiled a record of ten wins and four losses. Under the leadership of Coach Paul, the Bullpups learned certain fundamentals that will enable them to help the varsity and reserve teams in the future.

Although the swimming team lost several of their top swimmers through graduation last year, Coach Melvin Russell's Mermen completed a comparable season this year, placing fifth in league competition and seventh in district competition. This year's inexperienced squad, composed of last year's ninth and tenth graders, worked hard to develop their talents. The squad held a daily practice from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m., swimming up to a mile and a half a day.

The backbone of the squad was composed of swimmers such as junior Jim Hawkins, sophomore Barry Talley, and senior Al Mosher. Jim Hawkins competing in the 200 yard Jim's time in the 200 yd. freestyle was an excellent 2 minutes and 9 seconds; Jim also turned a time of 54 seconds in the 100 yard freestyle which was tops on the squad. Barry Talley took second place in the 100 yard freestyle in the city meets with a time of 56 seconds. Other creditable performances were shown by Don Macpherson with a time of 69.6 seconds in the 100 yard butterfly, Tom Hielbrun with a time of 24.8 in the 50 yard freestyle, and Glenn Rand with a time of 69.8 seconds in the 100 yard backstroke. The relay team composed of Al Mosher, Tom Hielbrun, Jim Hawkins, and Barry Talley placed first in PHSL competition. Graduating seniors who have done a great service to the team this year are Ross McConnell, Al Mosher, and Joe Alford.

The junior high swimming team under the coaching of Mr. Russell secured fourth place in the league. They were beaten by the squads from Withrow, Walnut Hills, and Western Hills. Returning gymnastic lettermen worked hard to fill the shoes of last year's graduates. The varsity once again finished second in the P.H.S.L. behind the eternally powerful Central. The reserves, due to lack of depth, finished third behind Central and Walnut Hills. Major Weber took two first places and Jim Dempsey two seconds on their specialty, the side horse. Jack Mann was the "winningest" Bulldog with five firsts and a third on the rope. Bob Malloy took first in all around, a second on the parallel bars and on the long horse and many third and fourth places. Squad members scoring places also were Tom Otto, all around; Tom Breyley, free exercise; Butch Turner, and Barry Lucas on the horizontal bar; and Paul Crosson on the rings. At the first annual state meet in Hamilton, Jim Dempsey took second on the side horse and Bob Malloy took second on the parallel bars. The reserve team was led by Rick Schatz and Jerry Nagy on the rings, Larry Murray on the parallel bars, Eliot Klayman on the side horse, Tom Schott on the long horse, and Russ Bucceire on the horizontal bar.

Harriers Finish Fourth in PHSL

Despite the loss of valuable lettermen last year, coach John Mayberry's cross country team led by Doug Lobser, Mike Devanney, and Tom Baechle took fourth place in the league for the second year in a row. Doug Lobser, only returning letterman, led the team in scoring in three city meets, placing fourth, third, and third respectively with a speedy 10.46 being his best time for the brutal two mile trot. Lobser again showed his tireless ability by placing third in district competition.

Seniors rounding out the varsity team were Bill Dunning, John Murphy, Mike Devanney, and Joe Alford. Underclassmen showing much promise were Chuck Manthey, Jay Kuhlman, Tom Baechle and John Holland. The reserve team, led by John Holland, was perhaps the finest ever in New Woodward's history, placing 4, 3, 3, in city competition, and fifth in the district. Coach Mayberry, in order to instill a greater interest in the sport this year, has added the Hundred Mile Club to the regular Cross Country letter as an auxiliary honor. All those who ran one hundred miles or over during the Cross Country season received a certificate of merit for the feat.

Tennis Squad Pins Hopes on New Talent

Woodward's netmen, under the guidance of Coach Charles Brown, faced a strenuous schedule of matches this year. Tony Apostiledes led the youthful team at the first singles position. Coach Brown is building a team this season which should prove to be a top contender among the P.H.S.L. competition next year. The team, consisting of ten members, is looking forward to the challenge of the sixteen match schedule.

Cindermen's Season Depends Upon Four Lettermen

Distance men take a warm-up jog around the track. Jim Dempsey, Chuck Manthey, Jerry Fleg, Jay Kuhlman, Mike Devanney, Pete Rosenwald, Ned Callihan, Bob Ribarski.

Around the nucleus of the returning lettermen, Howard Berliner, Bill French, Jack Mann and Tom Wolf, Coaches Jack Campbell and Jim Dougherty plan to build a strong team. Although the team lacks depth, there are many individuals with good prospects to place in the season's PHSL meets. Howard "Tiny" Berliner, returning for a strong third year, took six firsts in the first two meets. In the second meet he set a new school record in the 120-high hurdles with 15.8 seconds.

Hurlers Key

The varsity baseball team, despite the loss of valuable lettermen through graduation, filled the vacant spots with promising juniors and seniors. Competing for this year's revised infield were Ivan Marcus, Dwight Cottier, Mitch Goldberg, Joe Gutzwiller, Bob Wells, Al Spencer, and Doug Lobser. The outfield, one of the stronger part of the team, was composed of returning lettermen Jerry Collins, Barry Fielman, and Jim Hengle. The pitching chores were put upon the shoulders of Ed Southard, last year's most valuable player. But despite Southard's skill, there seemed to be no depth in the pitching department. This was the main concern of Coach Sid Friedman. The only other pitchers on hand were inexperienced. Yet prospects for a successful season seemed good.

Beginning the season with five consecutive victories, this year's golf team appeared likely to win their second straight P.H.S.L. championship. With little rebuilding necessary from last year's team, Mr. Edmund Montgomery coached returning players John Wagner, Dick Harbin, and Rick Schatz, and rookie sophomore Dennis Bond, into the lowest scoring foursome in the league. In this foursome, John Wagner and Dennis Bond, shot slightly above par, while Dick Harbin and Rick Schatz shot in the low eighties. Of these four only John Wagner will be graduating this June, leaving next year's team with a firm foundation for future success.

"W" Club Goal— Service for School

"W" Club, Woodward's honorary athletic organization, has a membership composed of boys who have earned at least one varsity letter in a sport and have maintained at least a 2.1 grade average. "W" Club counts among its activities the carrying of flags for all school and athletic assemblies. This year's "W" Club has also taken the job of selling programs and ushering for all of the football and basketball games.

Hockey, basketball, volleyball, swimming, and dancing are activities from which the athletic girl at Woodward can choose. The Woodward Girls Athletic Association has the duty of keeping those girls who are interested in these sports active in their chosen field. The G.A.A. also serves the purpose of providing money for equipment and transportation to carry out these varied activities. This is usually accomplished by having open houses and bake, apple, and flower sales.

Just as the boys need their exercise, so do the opposite sex; for it is important to the development of a well-rounded person. Fair play, determination, good sportsmanship, and hygiene are emphasized by G.A.A.

The G.A.A. officers and managers have as their duties the supervision of all the activities which take place in the organization. This enables the gym teachers and advisors to devote more of their time to the supervision of the lower class activities.

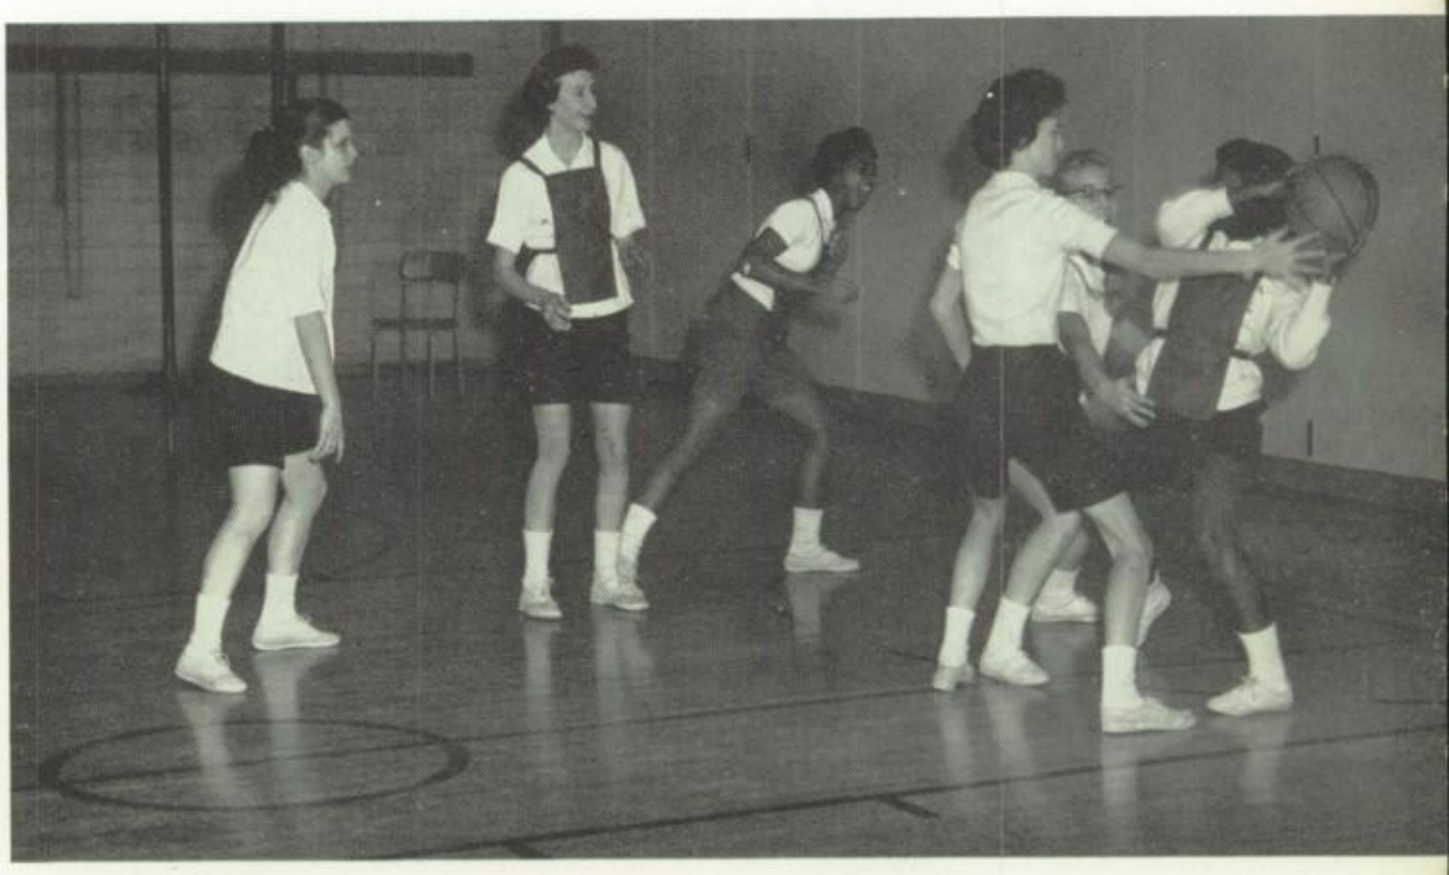
Teams Clash for Control

In Hockey, Basketball

Shoot! Shoot! Shoot! are the cries often heard from the girls who particpate in the fast moving game of basketball. Although basketball requires little equipment, a team needs much cooperation and desire to succeed. These are some of the values from which the Woodward girl derives benefits. The various basketball teams vied for the honor of first place in intrascholastic competition, so that they may have the honor of attending the basketball playday. The team is also chosen on the basis of leadership and sportsmanship.

"Sticks!" screamed the umpire at the hockey match this fall. This is the cry heard when one of the players raises her hockey stick above her shoulders. Through practice, team members learned to avoid this rule violation and develop the technique of the game—dribbling, bullying, tackling, and checking. They had the opportunity to show their skill and compete with other high schools at playday. The team was managed by Barb Schatz and advised by Miss Harriet Sprague.



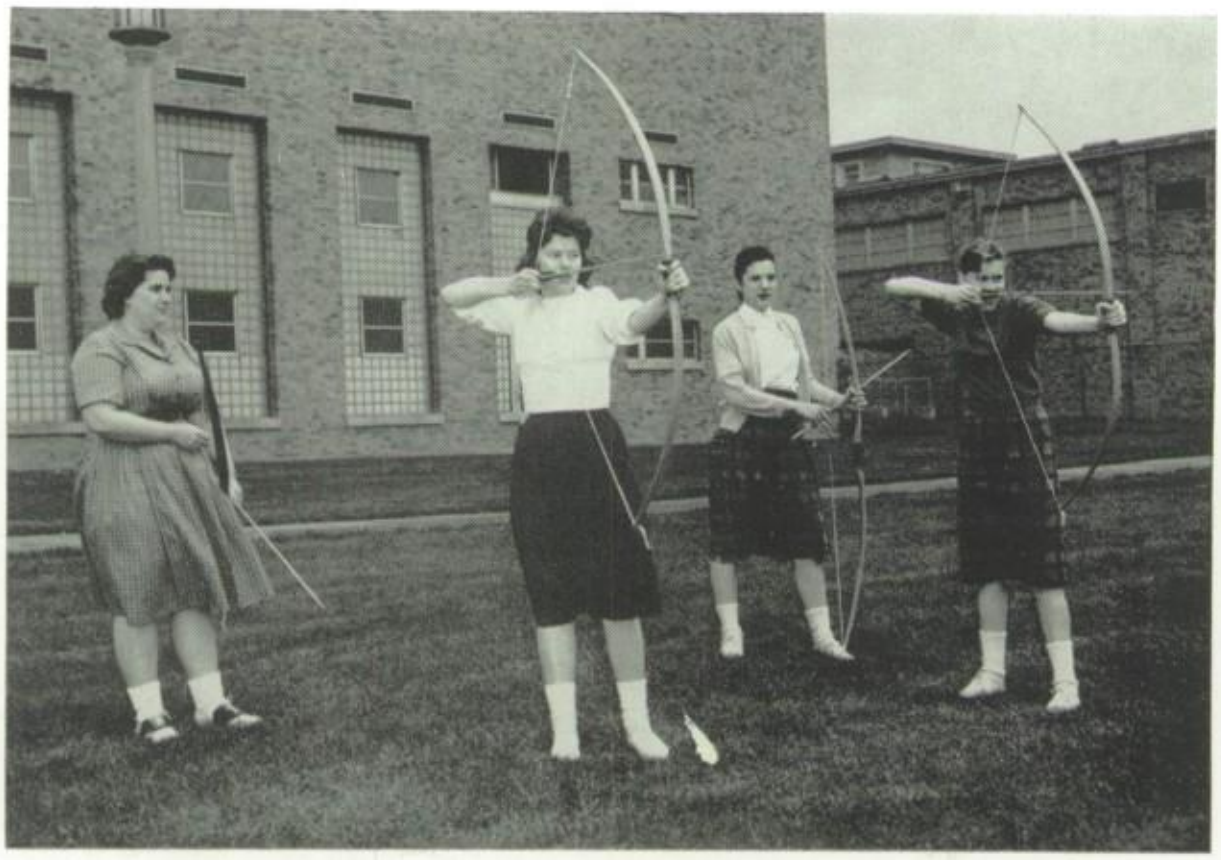
SENIOR BASKETBALL — Carol Hagerstrand, Barb Meadows, Marcia Roussea, Carol Meadows, Linda Steidle, Jackie Matthews.

Marty Strobbel, Janet Hutton, Marcia Rousseau, Margo Klien, Karen Kusel, Helen Hirschberg, Diana Jenks engage in a fast-moving volleyball game.

Volleyball, Archery Equals Fun, Exercise

Volleyball is perhaps one of the most popular sports among the girls at Woodward. Keen competition in the G.A.A. league produces exciting games and excellent teams. Cooperation, sportsmanship, and coordination are the qualities for which the team members strive. The selection of an honor team with the help of advisor Miss Harriet Sprague terminates the season.

Woodward's female archers. Equipment: bow, arrow, target. Requirements: keen eye, steady hand, sure foot, enthusiasm. Reward: poise, exercise, and a thorough enjoyment of one of the world's most popular sports. The archery season is highlighted by the Spring Sports Playday held at Lunken Airport Playfield, where all public high archery teams compete. Under the able leadership of Gail Frazier, the archery team found many hours of satisfaction and enjoyment.



Ricky Gorett, Karen Hagerstrand, Marky Corein, Gail Frazier prepare to shoot.

Softball—Swingin' Sport;

Polywogs Dip 'n' Dive

The ball may be soft but the sport is a difficult one to master. Softball is a team sport requiring much cooperation, fast thinking, quick hands, and skill. Besides participating in the Spring Playday Woodward's teams set up many intramural games which sharpened their playing. Under the leadership of Barb Meadows, a varsity softball team is being organized which will play other schools showing that the quality of the sport at Woodward is increasing.

Fifty-five mermaids comprise Woodward's selected synchronized swim group. To be eligible for membership, each girl must be able to perform, with grace and precision, certain difficult strokes for exhibition swimming. Both Polywog members and their audience look forward to the spring water show, a main feature of the May Fete. The success of this enterprise is due to the coaching of Miss Wescott, the leadership of president Mary Robinson, and the ability of its members.

Carol Quisno and Pat Hauss watch as Rosemary Eng gets set to hit an iron shot.

Golf, Modern Dance Challenge Coordination, Balance, Timing

Golf is a G.A.A. activity at Woodward which endeavors to instruct girls in the fundamental rules and techniques of the sport. Through the G.A.A. program, interested girls are working to develop a good team in competition with other schools. One note of interest—any particularly good female golfer will be invited to join the presently all-male golf team.

From the confines of the girls gymnasium can be often heard inspirational music to which modern dance club members are busily devising a routine. Here difficult steps are synchronized with the music to produce beautiful symposiums. Members of Modern Dance, selected for exceptional skill, poise, beauty and grace, took part in a city-wide dance symposium. In the '61 Showcase they performed several numbers. Sheri Kaplan is manager and Miss Marilyn Wescott is advisor. The Woodward Modern Dance group adds a cultural air to Woodward life.

Junior GAA, Guppies Delve into Sports

The Junior High Girls Athletic Association, open to any girl in the seventh, eighth, or ninth grade, stimulates interest in a diverse athletic program including basketball, softball, soccer, and volleyball. These girls learn good sportsmanship, interest in other people, and interest in one's own growth. Under the watchful eye of Mrs. Mary Lou Koehl, G.A.A. members may win a letter by accumulating eighteen or more points.

Guppies, the junior high Polywogs, strive to supply Polywogs with able swimmers in the same fashion other reserve teams supply varsity sports with their athletes. Throughout the year, the members practiced to improve their swimming and water ballet skills. This year, as in previous years, they are taking part in the water show along with the Polywogs.

Teamwork Is Vital in Basketball, Volleyball

One of the most popular G.A.A. sports is basketball. Players run, dribble, and shoot in this fast moving game. It is popular with the girls because it gives one the chance to unwind and release her energy. Even though their scores don't compare with the varsity's, the girls had a lot of fun in this sport.

Volleyball rates high on the list of indoor sports in which the interested girl in G.A.A. takes part. Competition is difficult and produces strong team spirit. At the end of the regular season the best members on each team are selected to participate on the honor team. Selection is based on ability and sportsmanship. The highlight of the season is a game between the honor team and the faculty women.

Girls Get Kick Out of Soccer; Baseball Proves To Be a Hit

Soccer is the junior high counterpart of senior high hockey. Played much in the same way as hockey, this stimulating sport involves the advancement of the ball solely by power, and requires speedy movement, quick reactions, and cunning method. Because of the need for swift and forceful play, the girls must develop and master safety habits as well as game skills. With enthusiasm and determination, the junior high girls develop an enjoyment for the sport.

Softball, perhaps the most active of G.A.A.'s spring sport activities, attracts many girls interested in this competition. The Spring Sports Playday matches Woodward's G.A.A. softball team against other public high school squads.

Enthusiastic Cheerleaders Bolster Spirit

RESERVE—Marilyn Zwerin, Renee Schwartz, Judy Saxton, Cheryl Balay, Eileen Zwerin.

Cheerleaders attend all football and basketball games to build enthusiasm to back the Bulldog teams. The girls lead songs on club buses to each game to rouse the spirit of the boosters before reaching the stadium. Chosen in the spring of the year, they are selected on appearance, ability to lead cheers, and personality. Clad in the blue and white uniform of the squad, the girls represent Woodward to other schools.

JUNIOR HIGH—Suzy Spiegel, Penny Levine, Coral Levine, Ellen Friedman, Sherry Metz.

The seriousness with which the high school coach views his responsibilities is reflected in the sober mien of football mentor Mr. Jim Dougherty, waiting to speak at a pep rally.

ADVERTISING

Within minutes after the clang of the dismissal bell at Woodward High School, the cash registers at Swifton Shopping Center begin ringing up purchases of Woodward students. The student at that moment has become a consumer. And a to-be-reckoned-with consumer he is. If he has an average allowance he has from five to ten dollars weekly to spend.

If he earns a part-time wage, he has ten to twenty dollars weekly to spend. If he is a junior or a senior, there's a good chance he has his own car (200 upperclassmen do). All told, the 3,000 Woodward students have perhaps $15,000 to $20,000 each week in spending money. One proof of our student purchasing power is the recognition given by business in the 1961 WOODWARD TREASURES advertising section.

Woodward High School's first yearbook recording—twelve minutes of the music, voices, and sounds that highlighted this Sixty-onederful year.

Dear Jackie,

My dearest friend, I'm going to miss you. When I think of all the good times we've had together, I get sad. But then I think of how ~~keep~~ we will write to each other and possibly, someday, visit each other, I feel a little bit happier. "Bosom buddy," I'm really sorry to see you go. But I believe that we will remain the best of friends even though we will be many miles apart. Lots + lots + lots + lots + lots + lots of love, Patty

Dear Jackie,
You don't know how much I'm going to miss you doll baby! Maybe when you come down to visit we'll get married. Oh this is sooo sad (Sob!) Thanks for getting me nominated for art League (as it) It's all your fault. Hollings. — Yeah. Guess so! I'm sorry being elected. Thank you and I hope you will be fine. I know I'll really been such a ball knowing you and Dave and everything — but if you visit Yolk and remember you're always welcome. I'll be a lot of great friends in New Yolk and I hope there but I'll always remember you and I'll want ya to go! SOB! Best of luck to you, darling and adorable sweet, darling monotonous. I really can't tell you how much I love you. Best of luck to you, darling and adorable sweet, darling monotonous. Best of luck to you, darling and adorable sweet, darling monotonous. Best of luck to you, darling and adorable sweet, darling monotonous

Dear Jackie,
You're a peach, darling, now, fab, and truely adorable gal with a wonderful personality. It's a shame you have to move just when we were becoming real good friends. But that's life,
I'm sure you'll be a hit in New York
how can you miss (such a doll) and I envy you so much for getting to move to that fabulous city. Just Remember! When evening draws its curtain & pins it with a star, & remember Jackie you're a real good friend (namely me) no matter near or far. Love Ya Always & Forever — more!
Donna (Tokens)

P. S. Here's my address so you can't use the excuse that you've written, that's why you haven't written,
1139 Newbedford Ave.
